VOLCANO IN ITALY CAUSES IMMENSE DESTRUCTION

Armistice Anniversary Will Be Observed by Service at Cenotaph

Victoria, in Common With All Parts of the Empire, Will Mark Remembrance Day With Special Exercises—Similar Gatherings Will Be Held at War Memorials Up-Island

Procession of Veterans Will March to Parliament Square for Short Service

THE tenth anniversary of the signing of the Armistice will be celebrated today by a special memorial service which will be held under the auspices of the Armistice Period Committee at the Cenotaph. Citizens, and especially all ex-service men, are urged by the committee to attend this service in commemoration of those who died for their country.

The veterans' parade will fall in at 10:15 a.m. at the corner of Yates and Blanshard Streets, and will march off at 10:30. The parade will be headed by detachments from the naval and military permanent forces. General Sir Percy Lake will lead the veterans. Sergeant-Major Wilson will assist him in marshaling the parade. Four bands will be in attendance, the 16th Canadian Scottish Brass Band and their Pipe Band, the Salvation Army Band, and the Victoria Prize Band.

The route of march will be down Yates Street to Douglas, along Douglas to Belleville, and down Belleville to the cenotaph. After service each detachment will march off under its respective command, the veterans being escorted along Government Street to meet by the 16th Scottish Pipe and the Victoria Prize Band.

The signal for the beginning of the service will be the firing of the gun at Work Point. Buglers in the city will sound the call to arms. The two minutes' silence will follow. After the reading of the Roll of Honour, a short service will be conducted by Rev. J. W. Leighton, F., and Major the Rev. Dr. J. Campbell, C.P.

After the first hymn, wreaths will be placed on the cenotaph. In the presence of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, who will be attending the Armistice Period Committee on the island, his wreath will be placed on the cenotaph by his aide-de-camp, Captain W. H. Molson, M.C., followed by other officials and representatives of organizations.

No special invitations have been issued this year to government or municipal officials, organizations or individuals to attend the service, as it is felt by the committee that the service is a national one, and that all Canadians should be invited to take part in it.

The veterans will be lined up on the cenotaph on Belleville Street and on the road leading up to the Parliament Buildings. The service will be held on the cenotaph until the two minutes' silence, after which the service will be held on the road leading up to the Parliament Buildings.

TWO MORE IN RUNNING FOR CITY COUNCIL

Captain Archie Aitken and Trustee W. T. Straith Announce Candidacy for Aldermanic Honors

CONTESTANTS NOW NUMBER FOURTEEN

Two Triangular Contests Are Assured—Two Money By-Laws May Be Put Before Voters

WITH announcement made yesterday for the first time by Captain Archie Aitken and Trustee W. T. Straith, that they would be candidates for aldermanic honors, those running for civic office now total fourteen, with two triangular contests for mayor and police commissioner assured. In addition to those definitely announced, there are three prospective candidates. Alderman E. S. Woodward has not yet made up his mind whether to run for mayor or alderman, while Alderman H. O. Litchfield and ex-Alderman Cullin are both probable entries for the council.

Captain Aitken, who is the latest candidate for alderman, has already had considerable experience in civic service. Under the late Mayor Porter he served one year on the council, being the one member to press for the formation of an industrial committee. He served two years as school trustee, and while on that board instituted the system of dental clinics in the schools and fought hard for the Victoria College, which he believes has established itself as a valuable asset to the city.

Captain Aitken also served four years as police commissioner, his policy at that time being a "broad minded one, and fair play to the public and the police."

AN ENGINEER
By profession, Captain Aitken is an engineer. For fourteen years he was secretary of the Engineering Association, and for two years provincial president of the organization. He also served as president of the Victoria Engineering Society, and for two years as president of the Victoria Engineering Society.

ESTIMATES ON ROADS SCANNED
PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT CONSIDERS PROPOSALS FOR 1929 SEASON

May Be Influenced by Plans Which Were Outlined by the Late Administration

The estimates for the coming season are being dealt with by the various ministers at the present time in preparation for the approaching sitting of the Legislature. In this work the Department of Public Works is especially concerned, as it is necessary to one of the greatest spending departments of the Government.

There are continued conferences being held in the Capital between the Minister of Public Works and his staff and the district engineers from outside for the purpose of ascertaining just what the needs of the various parts of the province are regarding roads and other public works.

AVAILABLE REVENUE
In the matter of roads the policy of the province has been to spend upon this work only to the extent that the revenues from automobiles in the form of licences, gas taxation and other avenues of revenue will take care of the principal and interest on the road extensions. There has been no announcement by the present Government that there will be any deviation from this policy.

IN the absence of any change in this respect, it is to be expected, therefore, that the limit with regard to road expenditures will not be greatly in excess of that which has been spent in former years by the former Government.

The old Government launched on a programme which was announced to be part of a large scheme looking for a continued yearly expenditure. The work that has already been begun by the MacLean Government will naturally have to be carried on, in the shaping of the policy for the new year. Just at the present time the whole matter is in the melting pot.

There have been a number of new proposals in the line of road construction which have been placed before the minister, but nothing in the line of decided action has been agreed upon. The matter is one that will have to be viewed from the broad standpoint of the public welfare in general, before the specific features of the programme are agreed upon.

Heart of Empire Holds Great Celebration of Armistice Anniversary

LONDON, Nov. 10.—Tonight a hush already seems to have fallen on this land of Great Britain as the hour of the tenth anniversary of Armistice Day drew near, and London, the heart of the Empire, prepares to mark the day as a great religious commemoration with more than the usual solemnity and intensity of emotion.

Man Is Found Dead Sitting On Sidewalk

Mr. Cecil Burton Rowbottom, mechanic, of 647 Niagara Street, was found dead on Gordon Street last night by Mr. F. W. Savory, florist, who reported the matter to the police. Constables Littlefield and Maurice Wilkinson attended in the patrol and found Mr. Rowbottom sitting on the sidewalk with his back against the wall of the Vancouver Island Coach Lines, Limited, Depot. Dr. Nash was notified and his arrival pronounced life extinct. Coroner E. C. Hart, after viewing the body, instructed its removal to McCall's Funeral Parlor, where an inquest will be held.

P.G.E. Board Determined To Drop Line

VANCOUVER, Nov. 10.—Directors of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway are apparently determined to stand pat in their proposal to abandon passenger service and that it will require an expenditure of $300,000 for replacement work on bridges if service is continued.

Lieut.-Governor Has Engagements Today

HIS Honor the Lieutenant-Governor has two engagements on the Lower Mainland today in connection with the Armistice services. At 3:15 o'clock he will attend the service at Christ Church, Vancouver, where he will unveil a memorial to the British Empire's Dead, organized by the Vancouver Garrison.

In the evening he will attend the Armistice service to be held in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, New Westminster, at 7:30 o'clock.

PREFERENCE ON TIMBER URGED AT CONFERENCE

Delegates Return From Imperial Convention at Sydney—Mr. P. Z. Caverhill's Opinion, as Forester

STRONG SWING TO IMPERIAL TRADE

The importance of giving the British Columbia Douglas fir a preference in the lumber markets of the United Kingdom, even if this preference were as small as one per cent, was urged by Mr. P. Z. Caverhill, chief forester of British Columbia, at a conference which has recently closed, by Mr. P. Z. Caverhill, chief forester of British Columbia. It was pointed out by the head of the forestry branch in this province before the delegates that a preference of one shilling a hundred feet board measure, if given to the local production over that of the lumber entering the United Kingdom from the states adjoining this province, would have the effect of turning the trade this way.

Mr. Caverhill returned early yesterday morning by the St. Niagara, after being absent for several weeks attending a gathering of the representatives of the forestry departments of all parts of the British Empire. The meetings were held in Australia, with investigations also into the situation in New Zealand on the way back from the Commonwealth.

The opportunity to introduce into the discussions this important aspect of the situation as far as this province is concerned, was afforded when there came up before the gathering a discussion of the importance of fostering as far as possible trade within the Empire. In this connection the main part of the discussion was devoted to the trade with the United Kingdom.

THREE HURT BY AUTOMOBILES

EMMA LEE, SIX-YEAR-OLD CHILD, STRUGGLES AGAINST DEATH
Fifteen-Year-Old Charles Hepworth Taken to Hospital With Badly Injured Knee

Three automobile accidents occurred yesterday, which resulted in six-year-old Emma Lee, of 1628 Government Street, and Charles Hepworth, aged fifteen years, of Shawanigan Lake, being taken to the hospital, and Mr. Harry Garnett, of 180 Joseph Street, sustaining minor injuries.

Emma Lee is fighting for her life in the St. Joseph's Hospital, with a broken collar bone, several fractured ribs and internal injuries. Charles Hepworth sustained an injury to his left side. An X-ray will be taken to discover its nature. Mr. Garnett sustained a large lump over his left temple and of a severe pain under the left shoulder and also in the right leg.

After a study of the endangered field a committee of oil executives reported that every major project in the field faced trouble. More than a thousand men are working on the project, and the production of fourteen wells had been stopped.

Two Eagles Fight Duel Until Dead

NANAIMO, Nov. 10.—Two eagles fought a duel here. Both were killed, but not by each other. In their fierce combat they locked bills and talons in death grips they would not release, and they fell to the ground in Comox Road Park. There a truck driver saw them, and under his blows the air kins died ignominiously on the ground, continuing their combat, however, to their deaths.

Emperor Hirohito Would Be Worthy Of Land's Past

KYOTO, Nov. 10.—Emperor Hirohito tonight sat on the throne held by his fathers in unbroken succession since before the dawn of written history. More modern and progressive than any of his predecessors, he formally ascended the "high august seat" today with all the carefully preserved ritual of the ages. Sitting under the phoenix-crowned canopy, Hirohito asked the protection of the spirits of his ancestors and the support of his beloved millions of subjects to discharge his sacred duties in a manner not unworthy of the great past.

"It is our resolve," said the Emperor, "to endeavor to promote and cultivate friendly relations with all nations and thus contribute to the welfare of humanity."

Dismissal of Aimee's Case Cost $100,000

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 10.—The Examiner will say tomorrow it has learned from authoritative sources that documentary evidence, which will prove that at least $100,000 was involved in the dismissal of the Aimee Semple McPherson case, is now in the hands of the state grand jury. Much of this was obtained some weeks ago from Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, mother of Mrs. McPherson, who left her following a split with her daughter several months ago.

Manitoba By-Election Results in Return of Govt. Candidate

WINNIPEG, Nov. 10.—D. G. Mackenzie, Bracken Government candidate, was elected to the Manitoba Legislature today in the Landow provincial by-election by a majority of 267 over his Conservative opponent, Dr. H. E. Hicks.

The by-election was necessitated by the resignation of Hon. T. G.

Norris, former member, to join the Board of Railway Commissioners. The voting was Mackenzie 1,371, Hicks 1,104.

Mackenzie was the choice of both Progressives and Liberals, who each nominated him at their respective nomination meetings as their candidate.

United Kingdom rather than with the trade that was to be developed to a greater extent than at present between the other parts of the Empire.

PREFERENTIAL NEED

The opportunity presented itself in this connection to Mr. Caverhill to bring to the attention of the members of the conference from the United Kingdom the need of a preferential treatment of the timber from this province of equal grade and classification to that from the Western United States.

At the present time there is an import of eight shillings a hundred feet on the Douglas fir lumber that enters the British market from either the Province of British Columbia or the Western States. The proposal that was suggested by Mr. Caverhill would have for its object the giving of a preference of a shilling to the timber from this province which would mean that there would be a reduction to that extent on the British Columbia shipments, or the advancing of the general duty one shilling.

The disposition of the Old Country delegates appeared, said Mr. Caverhill, to be in favor of the possibility of the raising of the general tariff, and then allow the rate against Canada to remain where it was at present if anything were to be done. It was not held out as a very probable action on the part of the Imperial legislators, however.

TRADE WITHIN EMPIRE

This matter was one of the main topics which engrossed the attention of the conference. It came to the conference really from the last Imperial Conference held in London. At that gathering there was a sub-committee which went into the subject of trade within the boundaries of the Empire as desirable and something that should be fostered. Coupled with the report of the sub-committee dealing with this subject was the recommendation that there should be conducted as full research work as possible dealing with the forest products of the Empire, so that the fullest and most definite information should be available.

Lieutenant-Colonel Sir Peter Cluttenbuck presented the report of the Imperial Economic Committee which had dealt with this at the last Imperial Conference, and the subject was made the basis of a discussion and investigation by the Forestry Conference. The gathering, which was one which might well be expected to deal with the subject from a practical standpoint, adopted the findings of the committee.

It was therefore agreed that there should be fostered as great a share of the trade in the forest products within the bounds of the Empire as possible. Further, the advantage of carrying on as full research work as possible was urged upon the various parts of the Empire. In this way the fullest advantages from the forest growth could be ascertained, and advantage taken of it for the general welfare of the Empire.

In connection with the research work it was pointed out that Great Britain was doing a lot in this line through the laboratories that had been established. The possibilities not alone in the lines in which the timber resources were generally used at present, but along the avenues of getting from the products of the forests all the by-products possible, such as creosote and other ingredients, were all dealt with.

Not only is Great Britain engaged in this work of investigation, but in Canada and in India and some of the other parts of the Empire there is similar work being carried out. It was recommended by the conference that not only should this line of work be prosecuted with diligence in the larger and wealthier parts of the Empire, but that there should be encouraged the idea of having smaller integral parts co-operate with existing centres or centres for research work which might be established and thus gain the advantages which would follow without the necessity of going to very heavy expenditures on the work.

RESEARCH WORK

It was the opinion of all the delegates that the question of education along the lines of forestry, taking into account all the possibilities of the resources that were therein represented, should be extended. It was necessary to have the fullest information made available, and a comprehensive report along the line of encouraging the education of the young within the Empire along these lines will be prepared.

The British Empire Forestry Conference is an outgrowth of the war. In 1920, following on the close of the war, it was organized for the purpose of fostering within the Empire the fullest trade in products of the forest.

Pandora, of Yates and Blanshard, and at Christ Church Cathedral. This will assist a good number of churches in the ceremony of silence and will add to the impressiveness of the silence throughout the city. These buglers will be provided by the permanent forces, by the 16th Canadian Scottish and by the Eagles' Band.

The memorial service will be held at the cenotaph irrespective of weather conditions. If the weather is inclement the service will be made very brief. Most of the churches are holding commemorative services at the same time, so those who may be unable to attend at the cenotaph will be able to celebrate the Armistice with due solemnity.

The Canadian Red Cross will provide motor cars for invalided veterans who wish to participate in the parade.

ESQUIMALT

The Esquimalt Chapter, I.O.G.E., will decorate the graves of sailors and soldiers in the Naval and Military Cemetery, Esquimalt, and will also place wreaths on the memorial table in St. Paul's Garrison Church and in Memorial Park. Forty-seven wreaths will be required.

DUNCAN

The service in the Agricultural Hall will begin with a prelude by the Cowichan Amateur Orchestraled by the leadership of Mr. W. A. Willett.

At 11 a.m. there will be observed two minutes' silence. As in former years the fire siren will sound the hour. The service will be conducted by members of the Cowichan Ministerial Association and Archdeacon H. A. Collison will give a short address.

GUARD OF HONOR FIRST

At the conclusion of the hymn the congregation is asked to remain seated while the guard of honor, which will be in charge of Mr. A. J. Eastie, president, Cowichan Legion, leave the hall.

The guard comprises members of the Legion, the Women's Auxiliary to the Legion, Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire, Boy Scouts, Wolf Cubs, Girl Guides and Brownies.

They will form up outside to should be encouraged the idea of having smaller integral parts co-operate with existing centres or centres for research work which might be established and thus gain the advantages which would follow without the necessity of going to very heavy expenditures on the work.

to march to the Cross. The congregation will follow. The mayor, reeve, members of councils and Ministerial Association will lead the procession. On reaching the Cross an opportunity will be given for the placing of wreaths.

The Lord's Prayer will then be said. Last Post and Reveille will be sounded by a bugler from the garrison, Victoria. The National Anthem will be sung and the Rev. F. G. Christmas will pronounce the blessing.

LADYSMITH

Today an Armistice service will be held at the monument on First Avenue, under the auspices of Lady Smith United Church. Two minutes' silence; hymn, "O God, Our Help in Ages Past"; Scripture lesson, Rev. R. Brown, pastor of the Lady Smith United Church; two minutes' silence; Last Post; bugler S. Devlin, of Nanaimo; address, Hon. J. Hinchliffe; hymn, "Eternal Father, Strong to Save"; benediction, Rev. F. M. Cooke, M.A.; "God Save the King"; Laying on wreaths.

NANAIMO

The service organized by the Canadian Legion at Nanaimo will be held at the War Memorial at 3:30 o'clock.

CUMBERLAND, Nov. 10.—Special service will be held at the Cumberland Memorial Arch on Sunday at 12 noon with Revs. E. O. Robathan and J. R. Hewitt officiating. In the evening a church parade will be held to the Cumberland United Church, when a special service will be conducted by the pastor, Rev. J. R. Hewitt.

SOOKE, Nov. 10.—Under the auspices of the Sooke branch of the Canadian Legion of the B.E.S.L., an Armistice service will be held in Sooke Hall on Sunday at 10:55 a.m. The service will be conducted by Rev. S. Lundie. All members of the Sooke branch are requested to be at the clubroom at 10:45.

Divine service will be held in St. Matthew's Church, Langford, on Armistice Day at 10:30 a.m.

est so that there might be greater advantages accrue to all parts of the world owing allegiance to the British flag. It meets every five years, and is confined to representatives of the different parts of the Empire.

There is underlying the organization the idea that there may well be some means adopted for the making of the Empire self-sustaining as far as forest products are concerned. The conference before this one was held in Canada. Advantage is taken of the meetings not only to discuss matters from an academic standpoint, but the delegates visit the forest stands in the countries where the gatherings are held, and inspect for themselves what is going on, and the methods employed in the handling of the trade. It is, moreover, aimed by the representatives to get all the information respecting the industry that is possible during their stay.

VISIT FIVE STATES

In the present instance the initial meeting was held at Perth, in Western Australia. The conference, Mr. Caverhill says, was one that was very representative. There were some 102 present from all parts of the Empire. In turn visits were paid to South Australia, Victoria, New South Wales, and Tasmania, where the situations respecting the lumber business was studied.

Following the field work in these parts, the conference delegates met in Canberra, the capital of the Commonwealth, where the formal sessions were held and the business parts of the conferences were, for the most part, carried to consummation.

The situation, from a forest and timber standpoint in the Antipodes, differs, Mr. Caverhill says, very materially from that which is faced in this country. In the Australian territories he found that the same conditions do not apply all over the country. On the contrary, what applied in one part of the country did not so apply to the other sections.

The matter of reforestation, which is always a live one with forestry experts, is something, he says, which must be studied from the local situation for the greater part. The problems and the results which are attained in other countries, do not apply here. In the Australian territories he found that the same conditions do not apply all over the country. On the contrary, what applied in one part of the country did not so apply to the other sections.

TWO MORE IN RUNNING FOR CITY COUNCIL

Although inaugurating the industrial committee, Captain Aitken said he was not in accord with guaranteeing industrial bonds. He advocates the encouragement of industries by offering such concessions as free water, free site, or tax exemption. Beyond this he believes the city should not go. "An industry should be able to stand on its own feet."

Trustee W. T. Straith, in announcing his candidature for alderman, based his qualifications on his past experience as a member of the school board. He has served on that board for two years, and during the last year led the fight for a revision in the high school fees that should be paid by Saanich for its students attending the Victoria High School.

As president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce and vice-president of the Senior Chamber of Commerce, Trustee Straith has associated himself with many enterprises for the commercial progress of the city, and also for the development of city parks and playgrounds.

Trustee Straith was nominated at the last provincial Liberal convention for Victoria to the Provincial House. Besides voting for mayor, five aldermen, three school trustees and one police commissioner, the electorate will be asked to vote on a money by-law amounting to $145,000, for the erection of the Technical High School, and may also be asked to vote on a $50,000 by-law for the erection of the nurses' home at the Jubilee Hospital. The triangular contests and the money by-laws should result in a heavy poll this year, particularly with over 12,000 names on the voters' list.

THE CANDIDATES

The following are the candidates definitely announced for the election on December 13:

For Mayor—Alderman Percy R. Brown, Mr. Herbert Anson, and Mr. John Dean. Prospective candidate, Alderman E. S. Woodward.

For Aldermen—Mr. Robert Smith, Mr. J. A. Shank, Mrs. H. Crocker, Captain Archie Aitken, and Trustee W. T. Straith. Prospective candidates, Alderman H. O. Litchfield, Alderman E. S. Woodward, and ex-Alderman William Gullin.

For School Board—Magistrate George Jay, Trustee W. C. Moresby, and Mr. F. E. George. Prospective candidates, Mr. W. Percy Marchant.

For Police Commission—Commissioner Walter E. Stanland, Mr. Andrew McCarvin, and Mrs. James McGregor.

LIBERALS USE MR. CHURCHILL

VOICE OF CONSERVATIVE MINISTER TO BE HEARD AT LIBERAL MEETINGS

Gramophone Records of Speeches Made When He Opposed Conservatives Are Dug Up

LONDON, Nov. 10.—The voice of Winston Churchill, one of the most prominent members of Premier Baldwin's Cabinet, will be heard from Liberal platforms in all parts of the country in the coming political campaign, says The Evening Star, Liberal newspaper, today. But there is a catch in it.

"The Chancellor of the Exchequer will devote himself in particular to free trade, with inevitable repercussions on the Government's policy of protection disguised as 'safeguarding,'" The Star says. The explanation of the apparently remarkable political development, says the Liberal organ, is that when Churchill was an ardent free trader, before joining the Conservative ranks, he delivered many speeches on the subject and even made gramophone records of them. Some of these records, it appears, have fallen into the hands of the Liberals, and The Star says that they intend to have their audiences told in Churchill's own words "and in his own voice what his views are—perhaps were—on this subject."

"My dear," called a wife to her husband in the next room, "what are you opening that can with?"

"Why," he said, "with a can opener. What did you think I was doing it with?"

"Well," replied his wife, "I thought from your remarks you were opening it with a prayer."

Sentenced to Death
MONTREAL, Nov. 10.—Joseph Chabot, self-confessed murderer of Alphonse Plet, a woman with whom he had been living, was found guilty of murder today by a jury under Judge Wilson in the Court of King's Bench, and sentenced to be hanged on February 8. Chabot's confession told of his having stabbed the woman twice and of lighting a fire under her body to destroy it. The crime took place last June.

Housewife—Why Mary, what do you mean by looking through the keyhole?
Maid—Well, I—er—er—was dusting, and I thought I'd look and see if there was any cobwebs in it, mum.

FALL ASSIZES TO OPEN HERE NEXT TUESDAY

One Murder, Two Attempted Murders and Five Other Cases Will Be Heard at Court House

THREE COUNSEL FOR THE CROWN

The annual Fall Criminal Assizes in Victoria will commence next Tuesday, November 13, at 11 a.m. at the Provincial Court House on Bastion Street, with Hon. Mr. Justice W. A. Macdonald presiding. One murder trial, two attempted murders and five other cases will be on the list for hearing at the Assizes.

Lydia Catherine Rosman will face trial on a charge of murdering a newly born child at Ganges on April 23. In Rex vs. Freeman Frederick Fletcher, the accused will be tried on a charge of attempting to murder William Canning, of Vancouver. The charge is the outcome of a stabbing affray which took place on August 26 on board the S.S. Princess Adelaide, en route from Victoria to Vancouver.

CHINESE TRIAL
Traversed from the Spring Assizes, Chew Leong Sing will stand trial for a second time on a charge of attempted murder in connection with the wounding of Wong Lim in a Douglas Street pistol battle on February 5. Chew Leong Sing was tried on this count in March, on which occasion the petit jury disagreed. Lee Jim, who is now serving a fifteen-year penitentiary term after a separate trial on the same issue, will be brought to testify at the new hearing.

Joseph Haig will be arraigned on a charge of wilfully damaging on October 31 an automobile owned by George Mason.

Stanley Park Coward will be charged with on August 30 unlawfully assaulting at Sidney, Len Chow, and occasioning him actual bodily harm.

Alison H. Taylor will face trial on a charge of inducing Albert F. Griffiths, by false pretences, to endorse a bank draft for $300 at Victoria on July 13.

ASSAULT CHARGE
Massa Singh is accused of unlawfully attacking and striking Jennie McQueen at Victoria on March 21.

H. A. Lund will be tried on a charge of unlawfully injuring goats at Metichon on March 28.

Three counsel will appear for the Crown in various cases which will come before the Assizes. Mr. William C. Moreau will prosecute in the majority of the trials. Mr. A. M. Johnson, K.C., will prosecute in the hearing of Rex vs. Lydia C. Rosman if the grand jury returns a true bill in this case. Mr. W. H. Bullock-Webster will act for the prosecution in the trial of Chew Leong Sing, charged with attempted murder.

All grand and petit juries, who have been summoned by Sheriff H. W. Goggin, must appear at 11 o'clock Tuesday morning in the Assize Court at the Court House.

INVESTMENT OF $700,000,000 MADE IN MINES

Ottawa Departmental Report Shows Remarkable Development of Mining Industry in Recent Years

EIGHTY THOUSAND WORKERS ENGAGED

OTTAWA, Nov. 10.—The opening up of Canada's natural resources during recent years is reflected in record industrial progress in practically all fields of endeavor, data revealed in a Dominion-wide survey conducted by the Department of the Interior.

"Remarkable progress in the development of the country's agricultural, forest, mineral, water power and other resources, shows that Canada is making a broad fronted advance in many fields of endeavor," the report says.

At present, available statistics show that there are 10,256 mines, metallurgical works, oil and gas wells, quarries, cement, lime and brick plants and other units actually engaged in the mining and allied operations within the Dominion, representing an estimated investment of more than $700,000,000, and giving permanent employment to 80,000 workers. In 1927 the net value of sales from these various industries reached $248,585,001, an increase of nearly 5 per cent over the previous year.

WARD SEVEN CONSERVATIVES TO GREET PREMIER

Ward Seven Conservatives, of Saanich, will hold a reception for Hon. B. F. Tolmie at Hampton Hall, off Burnside Road, on the evening of Thursday next, commencing at 8 o'clock. The occasion is being planned for the purpose of allowing the Conservatives of the ward to meet the Premier.

This is all the more important in view of the fact that the Premier not only occupies the position of the head of the Government of the Province, but is also the member for Saanich.

Dr. Tolmie has expressed a desire to meet the residents of the various wards, and these receptions have been planned to afford him this opportunity. There will be a programme of music and speeches, followed by refreshments and ending up with a dance.

AQUARIAN LEADER'S APPEAL SUCCEEDS

VANCOUVER, Nov. 10.—Concluding the first round of a dispute among members of the Aquarian Foundation, which established a settlement at Cedar, near Nanaimo, Edward Arthur Wilson, who is Brother XII, succeeded Friday, in Supreme Court, in having dissolved an injunction which enjoined Wilson from dealing with assets and securities of the society or interfering in its business.

The injunction had been granted by Mr. Justice Gregory on the application of E. A. Lucas, counsel for Maurice Von Platen and Robert De Luca, a co-plaintiff himself, all Aquarian governors opposed to Brother XII.

Mr. Lucas announced, after Mr. Justice Macdonald's decision, that he would amend the writ by adding the Aquarian Foundation as a defendant, when he would again apply for an injunction on additional affidavit material which was not admitted on Friday.

Leave to take whatever action they may see fit had been reserved to the plaintiffs by his lordship. Mr. Justice Gregory's order had prevented Wilson from touching moneys standing in any bank to the credit of the society or Wilson.

In Saanich Court

Handing down judgment yesterday in the Saanich police court, Magistrate George Jay imposed a fine of $10 on Joel Pendray for unlawfully discharging a gun in a restricted area.

ROTARY CLUB'S ICE CARNIVAL AIDS CHARITY

President Herbert Anscorn Tells Vast Audience at Arena of Rotarians' Community Service Work

ROTARY WORLD-WIDE MOVEMENT

"The idea of the Victoria Rotary Club in staging this ice carnival and in pursuing its policy of holding superfluous sales is actuated by the one motive of providing funds for its community service work, including in its many branches the relief for crippled children, generally through the Solarium, and other worthy objects," declared Mr. Herbert Anscorn, president of the Rotary Club of Victoria, in giving the official opening address last night at the commencement of the second annual Rotary ice carnival at the Arena.

President Anscorn stated that, no matter how willing the 106 members of the Rotary Club might be to undertake these responsibilities, it could not be successfully accomplished without the whole-hearted support and goodwill of the many artists whose splendid help was sincerely appreciated, together with the loyal support of the citizens who patronized the performance.

"We are privileged, indeed, to have with us again this year Miss Jo Holt, of Vancouver; Mr. Percy Williams, whose recent fame spread throughout the world, and a number of ladies from the Toronto Skating Club, including Miss Constance Wilson, an Olympic champion, who with many others will entertain us. We hope you will feel at the close of the performance that the entertainment has maintained the usual standard of Rotary activities," Mr. Anscorn said.

Mr. Anscorn told the vast audience that the Rotary movement was started by its founder, Mr. Paul Harris, of Chicago, in 1905, with but a handful of members, and in the twenty-three intervening years has reached world-wide proportions.

"No less than 150,000 people now constitute its membership, living in forty-two different countries of the world. All of these members are partners in the great world movement for one purpose and one purpose alone—and that purpose is clearly defined by Rotary's motto, 'Service, Not Self.'"

President Anscorn declared.

MR. D. B. PLUNKETT TO OPEN CAMPAIGN

Four Meetings For Employees of Local Plants Scheduled for This Week

Mr. D. B. Plunkett, Victoria's Conservative candidate in the Federal by-election of December 6, will open his campaign this week with addresses to workmen of the community. In the course of the next few weeks he hopes to interest all the workmen and women of the constituency in the by-election.

The first meeting he will address will be at the plant of W. J. Penney & Sons, Belleville Street, at 12:30 p.m. on Tuesday. The second meeting will be on Wednesday at the works of the Canadian Puget Sound Lumber Company, Discovery Street, at 12:30 p.m., while on Thursday at 12:30 p.m. the employees of the Cameron Lumber Company will be told of the political issues of the campaign. In the course of the present week Mr. Plunkett will also speak to the employees of the Lemon, Gormanson Company, Government Street.

THE WARRIOR DEAD

The story is told of how an overseas journalist while in the ward of a hospital for tubercular cases conceived the idea of commemorating the dead in the Great War by a tribute of silence at the eleventh hour of the eleventh day of the eleventh month of each year. The proposal, at first, whose author was one Edward George Honey, was received in an incredulous fashion, but the idea gained ground. It was taken up by the press in Britain and then it began to interest the King's Ministers. Finally it was adopted. Now the Unknown Warrior and his cohorts of the dead each year on this day are honored by the two minutes' silence, more impressive in its significance than all the restless anthems and Deumas that might be "reverberated from the choirs and orchestras of earth."

In the calendar of the Empire's history there is no anniversary more significant than this. The day in 1918 marked the end of a struggle, more terrible, more exacting, with danger more prolonged and more imminent, with sacrifices more cruel and with issues graver and more lasting than any in the annals of the race. It was the end of a period extending over four years during which the flower of the manhood of a people heard the last summons, and, having greatly adventured, held their trust with the angel of death. This then is the day of days dedicated to the memory of the fallen in the Great War; to those dead, and to those living as well, who held back an Empire from the abyss of ruin, for those who fought and survived have the proudest as well as the most poignant memories of the causes and effects of the issues and morals of the prolonged struggle.

For this and future generations Armistice Day stands as a perpetual reminder of the lessons of duty, of moral discipline, of self-control and self-sacrifice, of patriotism, of high purpose, of those attributes and characteristics which make a nation self-reliant, and therefore long-lived. These were learned in a furnace of suffering, often in the hour and article of death. They cannot be remembered too well in hours of pleasure and soft ease; it is then that they must grow if in the hour of trial they are to bear fruit. There were virtues of habit and thought and of conduct in the Great War which are among the priceless possessions of the race. Armistice Day is a landmark in history set to perpetuate these, and if they are not perpetuated then the dead will have died in vain. Thus it is that in the memories of what today's anniversary marks pride of place is given to "those who with fame immortal their own dear land endowed"—to the Warrior Dead, now resting from their feuds on earth. It is from the grave that the two minutes' silence speaks with perennial significance to the hearts of men and women telling them of a love that was victorious and of a sacrifice that was the price of an Empire's deliverance.

A PRIMATE'S RETIREMENT

The retirement of Dr. Randall Thomas Davidson as Archbishop of Canterbury will stand in history as one of the notable religious events of the year. It is a fitting ending to a career that has been marked throughout by wisdom and unselfishness. Vigorous still, and mentally alert, though past fourscore, and no way soured by the rejection of the Deposited Book, his action, in handing over the keys of his high office, has once again shown his supreme regard for what he believes to be the interests of the Church of England.

Dr. Davidson has been, first and last, a peace-maker. One of his passions as a Christian has been that "brethren should dwell together in unity." He has striven for comprehensiveness within his own Church. No pastor could have shown greater wisdom and patience in handling its diverse elements or perplexing situations. He showed his courage in becoming a target for extremists. His pulse in the midst of tumults marks him as one of the great Christian statesmen of the Church. This has been apparent during the discussion arising out of the problem created by the Revised Prayer Book.

The retiring Archbishop sought for a larger measure of co-operation in Christendom. The Lambeth Call for Unity of 1920 expressed his mediating spirit. The prolonged conferences with Free Churchmen on the one hand, and the exploratory discussions with Roman Catholic leaders, have his hearty endorsement. Intimate relations have been established with Swedish Lutheranism and Eastern Orthodox Churches. Many influences have combined to bring the communions closer together since 1903, when Dr. Davidson went to Lambeth Palace. Not the least has been the peace-making personality who dwelt there.

Hosts of those who have little interest in ecclesiastical affairs will wish well to the noble couple who will tomorrow celebrate their jubilee wedding anniversary. These twain have borne the flower of blameless and unselfish lives. Together they have dispensed unstinted hospitality in the home to which the one first came as chaplain over fifty years ago, and in which the other became his bride. Together—though this is little known—they have given a compassionate hand to their fallen brothers and sisters. Tomorrow they leave a home which none of their predecessors have hallowed more than they have. Good wishes will go with them as they cross the Thames to their humbler dwelling-place at Chyne-Row in Chelsea. "He will still," as one has said, "live by the river on the banks of which he began his ministry as a curate, and in later years took his place in the line of statesmen and princes who have watched the waters flow past to the infinite sea. May he live long to see the solemn pageant in which with honor and integrity and faith he has borne a part."

FEDERAL PROCRASTINATION

There is something wrong in the matter of pensions' administration for returned soldiers and their dependents when, even in a solitary instance, there is a case of waiting six years for recognition. The experience of Mrs. Richman of this city illustrates a policy of procrastination that is nothing short of cruel. Her husband died in 1922 as a result of war injuries. Obviously the claim for a pension on this account was legally and morally binding on the Dominion Government, under its pensions legislation, or else it would never have been recognized; yet it was six years before recognition was recorded. In the interim the widow had to face problems connected with the task of living which should never have been her legacy from the Great War. Dr. J. H. King, now the responsible Minister of the Federal Government in the matter of the pensions legislation concerned, should explain why year after year common fair dealing and an act of legal right should have been postponed with the very unpleasant consequences which such procrastination involved to the person most affected.

AN INDUSTRIAL PIONEER

Mr. Robert Ward, who has just died, had been a resident of British Columbia for the past thirty-five years. In early times, however, he was a pioneer of business in this community, a builder in many ways, enterprising with initiative, and one who constructed for the future in a solid fashion. His energies were manifold and the name of the firm he instituted here and in Vancouver in recent years, up to the time of its disposal was held in respect up to the time of its disposal. His name, its traditions of service have been perpetuated. Mr. Ward himself was interested in the development of the salmon industry, in the export of lumber, in fur sealing, and in other enterprises. He was numbered among those pioneers in industrial effort who laid the foundation of prosperity. Personally he had a host of friends in the olden times, and all of them who survive recall with pleasure his many estimable characteristics, his business acumen and the part he played in the upbuilding of the province.

In Australia democracy is supposed to have reached a stage of greater advancement than elsewhere, yet in the Commonwealth industrial strikes have become a recurrent menace in the national life. The danger to democracy is the danger of freedom developing into licence.

NOVEMBER 11, 1918-1928

Russet and gold and crimson stand
The tattered maples of this wide Dominion,
And flaming memories stir throughout the land,
Sear and blood-stained, in wild fair tempests fanned
To flutter heavenward, or strew the sand.
Like feathers lost from Love's brave broken pinion.

Each Fall, when thus a fainting year
Throbs, panting, its farewell to Time and mortals,
Echoes awake of music once so dear—
Again the voices of the past we hear
In triumph songs of armies drawing near,
Thrilling, but hushed, beyond death's curtain portals.

Through these, there rings a clarion call
That clearer grows in every new November—
"We set the service of the Right over all,
For Faith and Honor we were proud to fall,
Breaking the bonds that held our souls in thrall—
Fall not our faith, Friend! Follow . . . and remember!"

Forget we the bright hopes they shed
Like Autumn leaves that die to scatter blessing?
The gold of honor, dun grief, and passion red
With rain of our tears and love's warm sunlight fed
To bring true life from lives the world thought dead—
The Spirit's victory over flesh confessing?

For They, in dying, did forego
The glamour of false delights and fruits forbidden,
Pleasures and pride of youth did overthrow,
Measuring these lures as only they can
Who quench the lamp for the rarer glow
Of suns that blaze in glory Heaven-hid!

They faced the dark . . . and found a light
Radiant beyond all dreams, steadfast in splendor
Down to this land of languor, dazed sight,
The feeble follies of this world's dark night—
Clothing all memory in garments white,
Transmuting passion to Love divinely tender!

We fall them! In Their children's eyes
Shines still the wonder of purity's grave beauty?
If from the snowy heights of Paradise
Down to this land of languor, dazed sight,
They stole again—how far would our path rise
To meet them on the rough steep of Duty?

Armistice Day

"The influence of War on national character shows that mankind has inherited the instincts of the tiger. If the State is to survive the tiger must be eliminated. Only an intense spiritual conflict can resist these impulses." From an address delivered recently by Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin, Prime Minister of Great Britain, celebrating the anniversary of the founding of the League of Nations.

Dedicated to the Memory of Our Illustrious Dead.

"Lest we forget!"

By DAVID GRIEVE TUCKWELL

Ten years have poured their ceaseless flood
Into Time's fathomless abyss.Since weltering in a sea of blood,
We paused to sign the Armistice.And lo, we stand this Sabbath Day,
With saddened hearts, and humbled pride;Have we not trod Earth's sordid way?
And broken faith with those who died?'Neath Flanders fields, our hallowed dead,
Lie sleeping, where they fought and fell;Blithe skylarks carol overhead—
"God's in His Heaven; Our dead sleep well!"The grass grows green; red poppies fling
Their petals o'er our kinmen's dust;Through fretted woodland arches ring—
"Their hearts were true; Their purpose just!"Our brothers, sons and sires, who made
Their last great sacrifice supreme;It may be, watch within the Shade,
How we our solemn pledge redeem.Death's wine-press they have trod, that we Might scale—perchance with bleeding feet—
The heights, from whence 'tis given to see
Their sacrifice made full, complete.What of the Faith for which they shed
The rich, red vintage of their blood?Was it for transient things they bled?
For sordid things they steadfast stood?Or was it that the sword and spear
From their fell work might find succor.And over all God's Earth shine clear
The bright Millennial Age of Peace.Eternal, mighty, Triune God,
If Thou dost still Thyself concern
With man (high spirit—earthborn clod)
Who is so slow Thy Truth to learn;Teach us anew Thine ancient law,
(Immutable yet stands Thy Word)
Who in vain pride War's sword shall draw
Must themselves perish by the sword.

Sir A. Chamberlain's
Private Car Derailed
In Going to Ottawa

OTTAWA, Nov. 10.—Sir Austen Chamberlain, British Foreign Secretary, arrived here at 9:30 a.m. today from Toronto, the train having been delayed about an hour and a quarter when the private car in which Sir Austen and Lady Chamberlain, with their two children, Lawrence and Diane, were travelling, was derailed east of Hazelton, Ont. The private car was the only one of the train to leave the tracks. It stood upright and no one was injured.

Sir Austen was met at the station here by Premier Mackenzie King, members of the cabinet, Sir William Clark, British High Commissioner, and Mr. Tomlin, Japanese charge d'affaires.

MONTREAL, Nov. 10.—The Canadian Pacific Railway today issued the following statement regarding the derailling of the car in which Sir Austen Chamberlain and his family were travelling from Toronto to Ottawa:

"At 2:50 a.m. today, Canadian Pacific train No. 34, which leaves Toronto daily for Ottawa at 11:25 p.m., was delayed one hour and twenty-five minutes about six miles from Hazelton, Ont., due to a rail breaking under the train. The engine and all cars passed over the spot, with the exception of a private car on the rear, which was occupied by Sir Austen and Lady Chamberlain and family. This car was derailed but stood upright, and there were no injuries.

"What is known in the railway world as transverse fracture was the cause of the rail breaking and this could not be detected by outside inspection."

Open Forum Today

"The Eleventh Anniversary of the Russian Revolution" will be Mr. W. Bennett's subject at the Open Forum at 7:30 this evening, at Forum Hall, 717 Pandora Avenue. Questions and discussion will follow the address.

Jots From History

NERO, the famous firebrand emperor of Rome who ruled the Roman Empire in the first century, was the son of Agrippina and Claudius. Nero's mother poisoned Claudius when Nero was but seventeen years old, in order that he might ascend the throne. From that time forward Nero delved into every vice and indulgence, finally culminating his many crimes by causing his own mother to be murdered. In the year 64 Rome was burned and the act is laid to Nero's door. His debaucheries finally led to revolt and he killed himself with a sword.

OUR CHERISHED DEAD

To us through fleeting years they live on;
Close to our hearts we hold the cherished dead.
Today we live in peace on fields they won,
And hear resounding echoes of their tread.
Even as their day closed with the sinking sun,
The stars shine forth more brilliant overhead.
They lie where poppies blow, all side by side,
And deep in ocean aisles where angels glide.

In silence now, when deep emotions swell,
The nation's bosom on this sacred day,
Through plain and mountain let the silence tell
Then how their sacrifice we never may repay.

In sorrow's shade, how sweet the lingering spell,
They left behind them when they sailed away!
Today the silence brings them back again;
Oh, God, bring peace to them that still remain!

—Mary J. Barron,
Victoria, B.C., November 1, 1928.

IS IT TOO MUCH?

(Armistice Day, 1928)

Is it too much to give two minutes to give.

In which to think upon our hero dead;

To put all thought of self, and present, from us;

Too much to bow the head?

Only two minutes, sixty short-lived seconds

Twice told, in which to form our lips in prayer;

And thus be worthy of, if yet so brief,

The symbol that we wear.

Only two minutes of our mirth and laughter.

Only two minutes of our busy day.

Are asked for them in faithful recollection.

Before we go our way.

Hold back our thoughtless rush of work and pleasure;

Turn solemn thoughts upon their sacrifice—

Death, verdant, wounds, suspense, and ghastly terror—

For us they paid the price.

And in return, your country asks two minutes!

It seems, indeed, a little thing to give.

Yet some forget 'en this. Is it too much then

To ask of those who live?

—Ethel Seymour,
Victoria, B.C.

FIFTY YEARS AGO TODAY

(From The Daily British Colonist, November 11, 1878)

Telegraph Contribution.—Bernard's section of the Canadian Pacific Telegraph line has been completed from Cache Creek to Fish Trap, a most thirty miles from Kamloops. Owing to severity of the weather work has been discontinued for the season. The country through which the line travels is reported as very heavily timbered.

Two citizens (who give their names) have written on us to complain of one of the city police who they assert, after handcuffing a drunk man on Sunday last, and securing the assistance of two Indians to pack the prisoner to the barracks, struck the Indian man in the face with his fist, and beat him over the head and back with his baton. Unnecessary violence is greatly to be deprecated.

Marine News.—The steamer Beaver left yesterday afternoon with the prisoner here in tow for Nanaimo, where she will land coal for the B.C. Ferry. Having dropped the Beaver, the tug will cross over to Burrard Inlet and bring down the boat Tanager, laden with lumber at M. S. Nelson & Co.'s mill, and bound for Australia.

Note and Comment

By R. B. D.

Now that we have got one big election off our hands, Prohibition stands where it did, and two minor elections are still comparatively far off. We must ask pardon of various correspondents, and proceed to pay some attention to affairs that really matter, such as books and authors. Here is a letter from one correspondent:

Victoria, B.C.

November 4, 1928.

Dear R. B. D.—I notice in today's Colonist you mention a story of the sea as the "Brass Bounder." This is a slight error and should read "The Brassbounder," (one word). The book is written by Captain Bone, a Glaswegian, who is in command of one of the Anchor Line steamers, sailing between New York and Glasgow—I think the Cameron.

The Bones are a well-known Glasgow family, one of them being Sturhead Bone, who is probably the foremost etcher of today. I have written home, (why do we Scots never think of any land but Scotland as home?) for a copy of "The Brassbounder," and will give you the loan of it on receipt.

Glad you mentioned the name of McTear. What hours of joy McTear and Captain Kettle have held for.

Have you ever read "The Vital Spark" or "Para Handy," two extremely funny books, by (Dr.) Neil Munro, Editor of Glasgow Evening News. They mostly concern the adventures of the skipper of a coal barge on the Firth of Clyde and Loch Fyne.

Yours to a cinder,

A. GLESCA KEELIE

It is very kind of that home-sick Glaswegian "Keelie," whatever that may be and however hard it may be to understand why anyone hailing from the city on a stream which by courtesy is called a river to be home-sick, to go to the expense and trouble of procuring a book for the purpose of giving pleasure to a friend. At the same time it would be ungracious to "look a gift horse in the mouth," and really good books are very scarce in these degenerate days. We have no doubt that we shall enjoy "Brassbounder" (one word), although we shall have to give a receipt for it, and possibly support the acknowledgment with a written guarantee. The Scots are a thrifty as well as a kindly race of people. Still the precaution will be well taken, for newspaper people consider every book that comes into their hands personal property.

Talking about sea stories, there is one writer of really good tales of the sea whose name and works we forgot to mention. W. W. Jacobs has written some very humorous stories both of sea and land. But Mr. Jacobs is not a blue water sailor, and writes from observation of the ways of mariners on land leave rather than from actual experience on the rolling deep. "Bob Pretty" is possibly one of his best characters, and Bob is a landsman and resourceful poacher.

The writer of the following surely cannot be either from Glasgow or any other part of Scotland:

P. O. Box 533,

R. B. D. Colonist, Victoria, B.C.
Dear R. B. D.—I read this morning with uncommon pleasure the letter of your charming correspondent, Mr. Munro, who designates himself as "An Old Lady of No Importance." Agreeing with you that a lady capable of writing such a letter must be of the greatest importance, I would feel it a great honor if she would deign to accept through your hands the enclosed volume.

May I take this opportunity of expressing my appreciation of your sound valuation of books.

Sincerely,

An Author of No Importance.

The reader will notice that there are no conditions whatever attached to the receipt of this book. The title of it is "Monsoon Magic," and the author of it is M. Inskip, who seems to be a resident of Victoria or neighborhood. Although we might have perused the work by the fireside at our leisure, with occasional interruptions to fill up and light up and try to bring in some good music over the radio (a difficult job during the late election campaign, when the far from musical voices of national and local politicians were "on the air,") we finished the book at one down-sitting, and therefore have to thank Mr. Inskip for passing one evening with a considerable amount of pleasure, and we trust, not without some profit. "Monsoon Magic" is not, strictly speaking, a tale of the sea. It is more of a story of thrilling adventures on some of the mysterious islands of the Southern Seas. If the scene of the exciting adventures of its characters had

ROYAL SOCIETY
MAKES APPEAL FOR MEMBERS

Organization Exists to Inculcate Patriotism and to Stimulate Love of Native Country

VICTORIA BRANCH
20 YEARS OF AGE

The Royal Society of St. George was founded in London some thirty years ago by the present, honorary secretary of the society, Mr. Howard Ruff, says Mr. Harry Langley, president of the Victoria branch of the Royal Society of St. George, in connection with its membership appeal. Its real activity first commenced following the Boer War, when an appeal to the instinctive patriotism and racial pride of Englishmen at home and overseas was made to counteract the teachings of those who advocated a return to a state of unpreparedness, which had resulted in a disastrous and needless war between Great Britain and the South African republic. From that time on, a publication known as "The English Race," made its appearance, calling upon members of the English race throughout the world to organize and apply themselves to the important work of training the young in the elementary duties of citizenship, and the sacred and all-essential principles of patriotism. The honorary secretary in this publication wrote: "We cannot bend old trees, but we can train the young." At the annual meeting of the society at the Mansion House, under the chairmanship of the Lord Mayor, a resolution in favor of the obligatory direct teaching of patriotism in schools of every grade (including universities) has been unanimously adopted, and concluded Mr. Ruff's appeal. "The society will not relax its efforts until this object is attained."

TO INCULCATE PATRIOTISM

To revive the observance of St. George's Day, April 23, to strengthen and maintain the spirit of nationality and sentiment of race, which should associate all of kindred blood wherever dispersed, is the most outstanding feature of the work. To teach respect for the flag in the public schools, and to perpetuate the memory of those whose names are inscribed so deeply on the pages of history, to recall and celebrate the deeds of valor, enterprise and distinguished services to the State.

The local branch of the Society of St. George was established in 1908, and some of the charter members delight to recall the memory of the late Rev. J. L. Bay, who, by his extraordinary force and originality who did much towards the establishment of the society. Another hardy pioneer whose memory is still honored is the late Mr. W. B. Dea-ville, a true-hearted and whole-souled Britisher, whose optimism and active support of the movement, as he was in the days of its inception, and is the honorary president of the society.

TO MEET NEW CONDITIONS

One of the problems which has to be dealt with in such an organization, is to shape a programme which meets with the altered conditions. Young people are growing up who have never seen the Motherland, children of English parents whose native air is Victoria, or some other place in Canada. It is the society's business and duty to interpret to them the traditions of England, and to carry on, through them, the propaganda inspired by our patron saint, in order that they may become a strong link with the past, to serve Canada as well as their fathers did in the pioneer days. The spirit of empire breathes through the St. George's movement. "We would also remind ourselves of the duty we owe to Canada in bringing to her and giving to her our best service and devotion, which were inspired by English example and performance. We would seek to pattern the institutions of Canada on the model of England; to make our legislatures function so that justice may prevail. To preserve our resources from exploitation; to lighten the tone and morale of public life, so that not only commerce may thrive, but men and women of high calibre may be attracted to public life and public service. To give support to every patriotic movement, and to give to our children the freest, most complete and beneficial system of education.

The Society of St. George makes its appeal today to men and women and to young people of English stock, wherever born, who will associate themselves with our movement, for fellowship, inspiration, and service for our city, country, and Empire.

JOSEPH WILLIAM FLETCHER "Severe, sharp pains would catch me in the back and hips and hurt so I couldn't move for a few minutes," said Joseph William Fletcher, a farmer who lives on Tait Street, Saanich, as he told how bad rheumatism affected him.

"My joints ached and I could hardly work," he said. "I had tried many medicines and liniments, but got very little relief."

"Husky is helping me more than anything," he said. "I had tried many medicines and liniments, but got very little relief."

Mr. Harry Irvine To Speak Tonight

Mr. Harry Irvine, who was here last year under the auspices of the National Council of Education, will be in the city over the week-end and has volunteered to give an address on "The Court of King Arthur" at the Memorial Hall this evening at 8:45 o'clock, after the church services. Dean Quinlan, president of the local branch of the National Council of Education, will preside. This is the only occasion on which Mr. Irvine will speak in Victoria during his present tour of the Dominion.

Died in Nanaimo

NANAIMO, Nov. 10.—The death occurred in the Nanaimo Hospital at 12:30 o'clock this morning of E. C. Thomas, at the age of sixty-four years, of pneumonia. The late Mr. Thomas had resided in Nanaimo for some time, and was a popular member of the local staff. He leaves a grown-up family in Vancouver to mourn his loss.

VETERAN SOLDIER BURIED SATURDAY

Colonel C. F. Lawson, Descendant of Pious Halifax Family, Was Well-Known Gaffer

Many old friends gathered at the B.C. Funeral company's Chapel yesterday afternoon for the funeral services of the late Colonel Charles Fairbanks Lawson, veteran soldier and gaffer, whose death occurred at the Jubilee Hospital. Although in failing health for the past year or more owing to his increasing years, he had been seriously ill only a week, and had been removed to the hospital just the day before his death.

Rev. A. E. del. Nunn, rector of St. Mary's, Oak Bay, conducted the funeral service, the hymns sung being "Onward Christian Soldiers," and "The King of Love My Shepherd Is." The pallbearers were Colonel Ridgeway Wilson, Major J. C. MacDonald, Capt. Percy James, and the following three members of the Senior Golf Association: Capt. J. V. Perkins, Mr. J. E. Wilson and Mr. Alec. Fraser. The Army and Navy Veterans were represented by the president, Mr. J. Jones, Capt. C. F. L. McGowan, Messrs. H. Callow and H. G. Savage. In recognition of Colonel Lawson's long military service the casket was draped with the Union Jack. Many beautiful wreaths testified to the affection and high esteem in which he was held. Interment was at Royal Oak Burial Park.

BORN IN NOVA SCOTIA

Born in Halifax, N.S., eighty-seven years ago, Colonel Charles Fairbanks Lawson belonged to one of Canada's prominent pioneer families, his grandfather, William Lawson, having been a member of the Legislative Council of Nova Scotia, and the first president of the Bank of Nova Scotia. His father was also a William Lawson.

A noted athlete in his youth, the winner of many running trophies, a keen shot, and a splendid horseman, Colonel Lawson adopted a military career while a very young man, and was in the 1st Battalion of the Queen's Own Rifles of Canada at the age of eighteen and ultimately attained command of the unit. His soldiering carried him to many parts of the world. For a time he was in command of the military depot at Richmond, Yorkshire, England, where the Princess of Wales Own Yorkshire Regiment was stationed; for five years he was in command of the military depot at Guildford, Surrey; he was military instructor at Hythe for some years and trained many of the officers who went out with the "Old Contemptibles," who played such a heroic part at St. Julien in the early part of the Great War, and his service abroad included a period in India and another in Bermuda, the latter during the yellow fever epidemic which accounted for so many hundreds of deaths in the West Indies.

RETURNS TO HALIFAX

On his retirement Colonel Lawson returned to his native city of Halifax in 1904, and there he and his family resided until they moved out to Victoria in 1912. He joined the Victoria Golf Club here and was a member of the Senior North-West Golf Association, playing regularly until about four years ago when advancing years and failing health made it advisable for him to give up such strenuous exercise. Since then he had devoted most of his time to gardening, another hobby in which he retained a keen interest until the end.

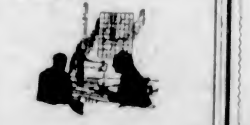

Besides the widow there are two daughters, Mrs. E. F. Boak, of Vancouver, and Miss Mildred Lawson, living at the family home at 2434 Cranmore Road. Mrs. F. Lauder, of Duncan, is a niece; Mr. William Grant, principal of Upper Canada College, is a nephew. An only surviving sister, Mrs. Henry Field, lives in Winnipeg. Miss Mary Lawson, of the Friendly Help Association, is a cousin.

Prince Edward Branch W.A.

A very successful sale of work and dance was held last night in the Canadian Legion clubhouse on the Island Highway by the Women's Auxiliary of the Prince Edward Branch. The members are indebted to the radio and gramophone combined, which was loaned for the evening to provide the music for the dance which lasted until an early hour of the morning. Some very handsome pieces of work were exhibited and sold at the work stall by Mrs. A. G. Mackie. A doll, beautifully dressed as a fairy, by Mrs. Pennington, and whose name was to be guessed, proved to be an attraction. The name on the first ticket, "Wendy," not being guessed, the doll was finally won by Mr. Sam Watts with the name "Eileen" on ticket No. 170. Among the guests noticed were a party of young people brought by Mrs. E. Meredith-Jones including Miss Jones, Miss E. Money, Messrs. W. and T. George, also Mrs. P. A. Sparks, Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Bayles, Mrs. H. A. Hines, Mr. and Mrs. Richards, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Walker, Mr. and Mrs. F. Smedley, Miss K. Norman, Miss Nellie Wilson, Miss J. Souther and others.

Britannia Lodge

Britannia Lodge No. 216, L.O.B.A., held its regular meeting in the Eagle's Hall, Government Street, Mrs. Kelman, worthy mistress, presiding. Good reports were given on the sale of work which will be held at an early date. The right whirling of grand mistress, Mrs. Darricott, making her annual official visit, was accompanied by Mrs. Burt, grand secretary, and Mrs. Treadwell, grand treasurer. The grand officers being introduced to the assembled members. They gave very good reports on the progress of the order and the orphanage at New Westminster. Sister Kelman, worthy mistress, presented Mrs. Darricott, grand mistress, with a small present to mark the occasion of her visit, the grand mistress replying, "A banquet followed. The next meeting is a business one, four candidates coming forward for initiation."

Porter Chapter, I.O.D.E.

The members of the Porter Chapter, I.O.D.E., met on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. W. Southin, at Chemainus, there being an attendance of seventeen members. Quite a lot of correspondence was dealt with, and two presentations were made by Mrs. F. Reed. Mrs. L. G. Hill was presented with a war memory bar, and Mrs. Gill with a very handsome brooch, the latter presentation being from the I.O.D.E. members. It was decided that the members attend the Armistice service being held at 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon. The secretary was asked to write to the Malaspina and Bastion Chapters, I.O.D.E., at Nanaimo, thanking the members for the kind hospitality shown the Porter Chapter on the occasion of the convention held recently at Nanaimo.

Britannia Branch, W.A.

The Ladies' Auxiliary to Britannia Branch held a very successful five hundred drive, followed by a dance, on Wednesday evening. Refreshments were served. Dancing followed until midnight. The prize-winners for the cards were: Ladies' first, Mrs. A. Fellow; second, Mrs. Hamilton; gentlemen's first, Mr. J. A. Smith; gentlemen's second, Mr. Owen. The two ten bids were won by Mrs. Fellow and Mrs. Heller.

R. B. McKicking Chapter

The Robert Burns McKicking Chapter, I.O.D.E., held a delightful bridge party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Peden, 651 Trout Street, Mrs. Dorothy Peden acting as convener. Thirteen tables of bridge were in play during the evening and prize winners were: Ladies' first, Mrs. Percy Ford; second, Miss Connie Garrow; gentlemen's first, Mr. H. G. Bolt; second, Mr. Alex. Peden. Refreshments were served by the members under the capable direction of Miss Allison Chow. The chapter has to thank Mr. Diagon for kindly donating one of the prizes.

Review No. 19, W.B.A.

A number of the members of Review No. 19, W.B.A., Chemainus, held a quilling bee on Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Russell Robinson kindly offering the use of her home for the occasion. Good work was done on the quill to be auctioned on November 19, the proceeds to go to the solarium. Those present were Mrs. Hallberg, Mrs. E. Robertson, Mrs. R. English, Mrs. J. Cook, Mrs. R. Robinson, Mrs. H. Smith, Mrs. P. Work, Mrs. Eberts, Mrs. Estridge, Mrs. Cherrington, Mrs. Cline, Mrs. Cave and Mrs. Belman. During the afternoon Mrs. Robinson served tea.

Oak Bay Bazaar

Under the auspices of the Oak Bay United Church Women's Association, a most successful bazaar-showers was held this week at the home of Mrs. W. A. Guy, 1541 Hampshire Road. A delightful programme was contributed to by the Misses Verlie and Viola Johnstone, Miss Eileen Carruthers, and Mrs. H. H. Hollins. Children's Ball to Be Held Soon

At a meeting of the Navy League Chapter, I.O.D.E., on Thursday, arrangements were discussed for the coming annual children's ball, which will mark the fourteenth anniversary of this popular event. As usual, the ball will be held in the ballroom at the Empress Hotel, and December 28 has been set as the day for the function, at which unusual novelties in dancing will be shown.

A vote of silent sympathy was passed to the relatives in Victoria of the late Mrs. A. M. Cooke, who was a valued member of the chapter, and to Mrs. Hebdien Gillespie, in the loss of her brother, the late Mr. A. E. Todd.

LEST WE FORGET

In Flanders' fields the poppies blow
Between the crosses, row on row,
That mark our place, and in the sky
The larks, still bravely singing, fly—
Scarce heard amid the guns below.
We are the dead. Short days ago
We lived, felt dawn, saw sunset glow,
Loved and were loved, and now we lie
In Flanders' fields.

Wedding Takes Place at "Breadalbane"

A pretty wedding attended only by the intimate friends and relatives of the bride and groom took place on Saturday evening at "Breadalbane," Windsor Road, when Rev. Dr. Campbell officiated in marriage. Alice, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ripley, Richmond Road, and Mr. Darrell Brooks, youngest son of Mr. Brooks, Craigflower Road.

The bride looked charming in a gown of electric blue chiffon velvet with flowing cape on the right shoulder lined with beige georgette. She wore a blue velvet hat to match, and carried an arm bouquet of Ophelia roses, white chrysanthemums and maidenhair fern. A spray of orange blossom, sent by her aunt residing in England, completed the bride's toilet.

The maid of honor, Miss Barney Davidson, was attired in a pretty dress of beige crepe-back satin with uneven hemline, and blue and silver hat. She carried a bouquet of carnations and maidenhair fern. Mr. George Sinnott supported the groom.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Kenyon, Carnarvon Street, Oak Bay. More than a hundred guests gathered to tender their felicitations to the young couple. They were assisted in receiving the guests by the mother of the bride, dressed in a rose de bois velvet gown, and the bride's aunt, dressed in black satin.

The decorated three-tier wedding cake was surmounted by a beautiful ornament, the gift of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Langshaw, residing in England. Refreshments were served during the evening. Those assisting were Mrs. Martin, Mrs. Briggs and Mrs. Thompson. Songs were rendered by Messrs. Kenyon, Booth and Rhodes.

Amid a shower of confetti and rice, the happy couple left on the afternoon boat for Seattle, the bride traveling in a black velvet coat trimmed with blonde liletine cuffs and collar and close-fitting hat. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Brooks will reside on Belmont Avenue.

Y.W.C.A. MONTHLY REPORTS RECEIVED

The monthly meeting of the board of directors of the Y.W.C.A. was held on Friday. The different committees presented reports of the work done during the month.

The Travelers' Aid secretary met on Friday and three trains and buses, and assistance was given to forty-eight people. The Girls' Work committee reported classes were being held in physical culture, china painting, basketry and dress-making. These had a membership of fifty-five. The educational committee reported a very interesting expedition under the guidance of Rev. Robert Connell, when a group of girls were taken to Mount Douglas and a study was made of rock formation. This was much enjoyed by those who could attend.

The "Story Hour" for children is proving very popular under the direction of Miss King, of the Public Library. Over seventy children were in attendance during the month. The Bible Class, which meets every Sunday afternoon with an attendance of over thirty, is taking "The World Study of the Life of Christ." This is a three-years' course of study which is being taken by the Y.W.C.A.'s and Y.M.C.A.'s throughout the world.

Arrangements have been made for an interesting series of discussions for girls, to be held by Mrs. (Rev.) Nelson. The first of these will be held on Monday night, November 19. The subject will be "The Quest of Youth."

The week of prayer will be observed from November 11 to 17, and will be led by the W.M.S. of the different churches.

The membership committee had a busy month, and as a result of its efforts thirty members had joined the association. The house committee reported every room in the residence filled. During the month nine permanent guests and sixty-one transients were accommodated. The committee stressed the need of enlarging the building in order to accommodate more girls. In the annex ten permanent and thirty-two transients were housed. Special mention was made of the gifts of twenty-six books from Mrs. Niblock, papers and magazines from Miss Agnew, Mrs. L. Ross and Mr. Forman.

South Saanich Y.P.S.

KEATING, Nov. 10.—The Young People's Society of the South Saanich United Church held its regular meeting in the church parlor on Monday evening. Mr. A. Hafer presided and Miss Ida Heyer led the devotional period which opened the meeting. Rev. Mr. Lees then gave his usual ten-minute address, the subject of which was the "Book of Judges." During the meeting it was announced that the play which the Sidney Young People's Society is presenting in Temperance Hall, under the auspices of the local society, would be held on Wednesday evening, November 21, instead of November 20, as formerly announced. The members are arranging entertainments to be held at the Aged Men's and Aged Women's Homes on Thursday and Friday evenings, November 29 and 30. Further arrangements for these will be made at later meetings.

At the conclusion of the business session the literary committee, under the leadership of Miss C. Mackay, took charge, and Rev. M.

"BARBERRY BUSH"

One Girl's Marriage Problems
By KATHLEEN NORRIS

"I missed it by one minute, the street car got into a block," he returned presently, drinking and shivering elaborately. "Now, what's the matter?" he broke off, in exasperation. "What have I said?"

"I don't think you're very polite," Barbara said, hurt, sitting down and taking the wide-awake baby in her arms. "She's going to have the blackest eyes in the world; she'll be a terror!" Barbara thought, with satisfaction.

"Police?" Because I said I'd caught the train? Oh, for the Lord's sake!" Barry raged. "I come home—just to be with you; I miss my train just because I can't afford to take a taxi; I get a lift on the Milo school bus and ride with a pack of dam' kids, instead of taking a taxi from Cottonwood; I walk through Tomas' place and get your milk for you, when I'm as sick as a dog—"

Presently Barry was still, except for the sound of angrily swallowed tea. The smouldering, sulphurous silence that repression and anger create began to widen between husband and wife. Barbara was wearied unto death of that silence.

"Come on, now, Barry, be sweet and talk to me. I'm dying to hear all the things that have happened to you!"

Silence. Barry went to the stove and poured himself another cup of tea.

"Now you know," Barbara began persuasively, "you know we'll be taken, we can thumb our noses at her! I don't see that twenty odd fussy women could give me more than I've got at this moment."

"Plus a little kerosene oil," Barbara suggested, as he paused. "This dimness is terrible to me."

"I'll get some tomorrow. Have we any money?" Barry asked, with simplicity.

"We have our $4 Tomas paid me this afternoon for the calf. It's there in the box. And a week from tomorrow is New Year's, and he'll owe us $14 for the cows."

"Then," Barry summarized it, "I'd say we are on Easy Street!"

"Well—" She gave a forlorn and yet joyful laugh.

"Was I a dirty dog to Link?" Barry presently said.

"You were."

"But I did you a poem this afternoon, Barberrry, for a Christmas present. I did it coming down in the train and I got to thinking what a wonder you are, and how I love you, and—I've got it somewhere here."

"Caught it eagerly, the face that Link had seen pale and tired that afternoon shining and rosy; she carried it to the candlelight.

"Barry," she said thickly, adoringly, reproachfully, when she read it. And in her exquisite voice she began to read it again:

"You gather all the things I love in one.
I have no mirth but you are mistress of:
The skies I love and the warm stars I love.
The sea, and the white beach that breaks upon
Are mine because you give them"

"Ah, Barry," Barbara cried, interrupting herself and tucking the paper into her pocket. "you do love me!"

"Love you?" he echoed, shaken. And he stopped her in her busy way across the kitchen and prisoned her shoulders in his big hands and crushed his own mouth against her sweet, protesting lips. "Is that for dinner?" he asked appreciatively, eyeing the abalone.

"Yes—I had put it away out in the woodshed, to be sure to keep it for you tomorrow, but now that you're here, we'll have it tonight. Tomas got it, yesterday, on Abalone Rock."

"Gosh, there's no place like home!" Barry muttered, sinking into his favorite chair. "I'll get you oil tomorrow—I promise it—even if I have to walk to Milo myself and bring it back."

"She's asleep. Is that a good baby or isn't it?" Barbara, after an expedition of inspection to the corner of the room, asked triumphantly.

"She's wonderful. This is a happy time, isn't it, Barberrry?"

"This is lovely."

"This," said Barry, as he so often said, "is the Kingdom of Heaven!"

(To be continued)

"Well, now, darling, it's all over, and there's nothing to quarrel about—except that you were terribly rude to poor Link."

"How do you mean rude? I was sick and exhausted—I couldn't be expected to dance and sing for him could I? He, with his horse and his sis, and I carrying in the milk pail."

"But, never mind, you're better, and he's gone, and I'm dying to hear about your trip," Barbara persisted.

"Well then, kiss me, and don't be a devil to me on Christmas Eve!" Barry pleaded, in a meek little penitent voice. And he put down his cup, and came across the kitchen, and knelt down beside Barbara, and enfolded both her and the baby with his long arms. His tired pale face shone with love and compunction; he dropped it against her own warm cheek, and shut his eyes. "My God, I love you!"

"I kiss at it, Barry, with her bad, murmured wearily. Barbara adored him suddenly.

He roused from drowsiness, and looked at the baby.

"She's a cute muggins!"

"Feel her little fingers grip, Barry. Give her your fingers."

"For the Lord's sake!" he whispered, struck, and with a boy's foolish, abashed grin.

"Here, you all here and hold her," Barbara directed him. He obeyed her contentedly, and she put the bundled baby into his arms. "Lean back—be comfortable," Barbara said. "There, now, your daddy's got you, precious. See, that she doesn't kick her feet free—don't do that, Kate!" she scolded, as the baby, indeed, brought a pair of squirming bare little extremities into view. "You must see her get her bath tomorrow, her first Christmas!" Barbara told Barry radiantly. "She's getting too cute! I'm going to hang up her stocking with ours tonight!"

"Gosh, that hot tea went to the spot, Barberrry. I was regularly sick when I came in!" Barry said gratefully. He rocked slowly, gently cradling the staring and wriggling baby in his arm. "Say, she's a regular pug—the seems twice as old as when I went away," he commented, amazed.

"Well, isn't she? She raised her little head up like a turtle today, when she heard my voice," Barbara stated proudly. She began dinner preparations happily. "Tell me about your old lady, Barry. Did she burst into tears and say that you looked like the boy she lost in the civil war?"

"She did not. She's an awful old pill," Barry answered frankly.

"Oh, and there's no New York in it for us?"

"Ugh! That's the trouble. She won't have anything to do with married men. She says she never helps anyone but young fellows with no families."

"Well, did you ever hear the like of that?" Barbara exclaimed. "We don't care, do we, Kate? We consider the source, and we give loud, rude laughs at ladies like that. Do you know I think she had an awful nerve to say that to you! Are you awfully disappointed, darling?"

"I am not," said Barry. "I never had much faith in the old girl, anyway, and if 'Napoleon Third' is

Dress Clothes

The vogue of dress clothes—which received so severe a blow during the war years and after—is increasing and it is now customary to change into this becoming attire for quite ordinary evening engagements. "I wish I'd seen The Hoover first!"

Who are the women who are saving, "I wish I had seen The Hoover first!" Invariably, so Hoover representatives tell us, they are those who have purchased ordinary vacuum cleaners from the first salesman who appeared. Without investigation. Without comparison.

Later, such women see The Hoover in action on their own rugs. They discover the difference between "Positive Agitation" and ordinary vacuum cleaning. Their regret is unmistakable. There is really a lesson to be learned from these housewives. It is: Don't buy any cleaner without first seeing what The Hoover will do.

The Hoover deserves this consideration. It is the leader in its field—and always has been. Product of the oldest and largest manufacturer.

Used in more homes than any other. Approved by the largest and most representative retailers. Endorsed by the leading rug and carpet manufacturers. But more important still, it is the only electric cleaner which embodies "Positive Agitation," the revolutionary cleaning principle which enables The Hoover to remove easily and quickly from rugs and carpets more dirt per minute than any other cleaner.

Don't be one of the women who say, "I wish I had seen The Hoover first." See The Hoover first. Any Hoover dealer will gladly bring a Hoover to your home for a demonstration any time you say. Telephone him.

Three models to choose from. Dusting tools and motor driven floor polishing attachment at small extra cost. Only $24.25 down. Liberal allowances for your old cleaner. Made in Hamilton, Ont.

Burgess Bedtime Stories

Rusty Is Worse Off Than Before

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Spang! A bullet from the air rifle of a boy who thought he was having sport, tore through a leaf close beside Rusty the Fox Squirrel. This was bad enough, but a moment later something worse happened. He heard the voice of a boy calling, and it wasn't the voice of the boy who was shooting at him. Then the boy down below answered. They called back and forth two or three times and presently another boy appeared on the scene and joined the one down at the foot of the tree. He also had a horrid air rifle.

"What are you shooting at?" he demanded of the first shooter.

"A Squirrel," replied the first shooter. "A big Fox Squirrel. I hit him once. Between us, we ought to get him. We'll have a lot of sport hunting him."

"Where is he?" demanded the newcomer eagerly.

"Way up in the top of this tree," replied the first boy. "He manages to keep the trunk of the tree between him and me, but with two of us he won't be able to do that. Do you see the knot, way up there on the trunk of the tree? Well, that squirrel is just about opposite that, only on the other side of the tree. Now, you keep a sharp watch there, while I go around on the other side. Be ready to shoot the instant he comes around."

The newcomer said he would. The other boy backed away a little and began moving around the opposite side of the tree. No sooner did he get around there than Rusty whizzed around the trunk of the tree close to that knot the first boy had pointed out. Spang! A bullet chipped a piece of bark off right close to Rusty's face.

"Did you get him?" yelled the first boy.

"No," replied the second boy. "Look out, he's coming around your side!"

Spang! Another bullet passed right through Rusty's whiskers. This was getting too hot for comfort. There was nothing for it but to try another trick. Rusty ran out along a limb and jumped to the nearest limb of another tree. As he did so, two bullets whistled close by him. Then began a race through the treetops. As fast as he could, Rusty tried to get away by jumping from tree to tree. Below, shouting excitedly, ran the boys, shouting whenever they got the chance. Another bullet hit Rusty and stung. My, how it did sting! Rusty felt as if he were being poked with a hot iron. He felt as miserable as ever a squirrel did feel.

"What are you shooting at?" he demanded of the first shooter.

Once he thought he had found a place of safety. It was an old crow's nest. Rusty curled up in the nest and was out of sight. But it didn't take the boys long to guess where he'd gone. One of them started to climb the tree. Rusty waited until he was almost to the nest. Then he jumped out and once more ran for his life. The moment he was out of that nest, the other boy began shooting.

It was great fun for the boys, but it was very dreadful for Rusty. It always is very dreadful for the ones who are hunted. The worst of it was, Rusty couldn't see any reason for it. He understood being hunted by Redtail the Hawk and Hooty the Owl, and other enemies among the furred and feathered folk. Those people were hungry and they were hunting him because they were hungry. But these two-legged creatures didn't need him for food. And they seemed to be having a good time in hunting him. Rusty couldn't understand it at all. When you come to think of it, it is rather hard to understand.

The next story: "A Bullet Teaches a Lesson."

CITY BLOCKS WILL CHANGE

SEVERAL PLANS COMPLETED FOR REMODELING OF DOWNTOWN BLOCKS AND STORES

Government Street as Business Area Is Coming Back—Fort Street Building Planned

Assuring a continued activity in the remodeling of downtown blocks and store fronts, it was learned yesterday that arrangements had been completed with the B.C. Land & Investment Agency, agent for the block on the east side of Government Street, between Troncy Alley and Yates Street, for the remodeling of this building. It was also learned that the McGregor Building, on the northeast corner of Broad and View Streets would also be remodeled.

The Morgan Fuel Company also has plans for the complete remodeling of the southwest corner of Johnson and Douglas Streets, a block that has 120 feet frontage on Douglas. Mr. W. L. Morgan recently purchased this property from the Doane estate, paying $45,000 for the south-west corner and $40,000 net for the Doane Building.

In addition to this, R. F. Castle & Company will remodel the old Royal Hotel on the southeast corner of Broad and Fort Streets, having acquired the property for the sum of $75,000.

It is understood that negotiations are under way for the purchase of undeveloped property on Douglas Street, near the Hudson's Bay store, while the city land department will recommend the sale of several parcels of reverted land, including a lot on the north side of Fort Street, between Blanchard and Douglas Streets. This lot is the other half of that sold for $8,000 last week. The price offered for the remaining half is $9,000, so that if the offer is accepted the city will be receiving the full assessed value of the entire property, namely $17,000. Mr. E. J. Bean bought the first portion with a view of building on it.

He—"Darling, will you marry me?" She—"Never!" He—"Thank Heaven! I feared a breach of promise case."

ROYAL BOOTBLACK!

Perhaps you won't believe this story. The incident actually happened, and to no less well-known a personage than Miss Peggy O'Neill. She told it herself.

"I was staying—she said—at a certain hotel in Monte Carlo, and put my shoes outside my bedroom door to be cleaned."

Next morning I looked for them. They were there—undisturbed.

I was angry. Then, up the corridor, I espied a dark-skinned man. "Hi! Boots!" I shouted. "Here!" And pointed to my shoes.

The man bowed. He took away my shoes, and they were returned later nicely polished, and filled with lovely flowers.

"Decent chap that!" I said to myself. "I must remember to tip him a bit extra when I am leaving."

That afternoon, at the roulette table, I sat opposite a dark gentleman immaculately dressed. He looked at me rather quizzically. "My! But I seem to know that face," I thought, and I asked a friend who he was.

"The Shah of Persia," was the reply.

"Great Scott!" I gasped. "And I ordered him to clean my boots this morning!"

Style Experts' Fall Models for Women

Velvet Is the Passport to Elegance

"CLEVER drapes bring out hidden values," states one of our contemporary stylists. Her reference is to home furnishings. Any woman can easily apply it to her clothes.

Let's consider the fashionable velvet drape full of lights and shadows against a background of the dull lustrousness of crepe. Velvet supplies the highlights to further the illusion of slenderness or it may be used to fill in the too-thin figure. Velvet does away the mode. It sways the trimming field as well. Fancy your own figure silhouetted in rich black or brown crepe with the taut color picked up and emphasized by a subtle velvet draping!

Transparent velvet effects the desired sartorial spirit of movement in the model of georgette in the centre of the above group. With a thought to the possible shortening of the matronly figure through the double tiers of the skirt, the cascade echoing the velvet jabot is fashioned of the dress fabric instead.

Slanting lines achieved through fagoting and scant flares of velvet applied to the skirt, imbue the crepe frock at the right with a languid elegance, be the figure one of sixteen or forty.

To those who remain consistently and unyieldingly youthful throughout the seasons, a frock like that at the left has an appeal. A blouse of Canton crepe and two-tiered ripple skirt of velvet with a narrow under-skirt showing beneath the dress is an example of chic commensurate with many dresses of more pretentious price.

Today's Paris Style Cable

By ALICE MAXWELL APPO

AT the Paris leather show short umbrellas in long leather purses were exhibited. Sharkskin, called boroso, and having a fine pebbly surface, is beautiful in gold slippers and black Hermes purses, the latter lustrous like jet. Other features were printed suede leathers in wool-trimmed wind breaker jackets and matching hats. Some matching shoes and bags noted in tweed printed suedes. The new bright blue was last week the most pronounced color among tea costumes, and included coat, dress and hat, all in the same vivid shade. Matching accessories in grey emphasize grey costumes. With a tweed coat the bag is mounted in lizard and shoes are black and lizard. Formal costumes of smooth cloth in grey are always matched by grey in the hat, shoes and hosiery.

Seen in Big City Shops

ALL-LEATHER HEELS REAPPEAR

Many exclusive shoe houses are showing street slippers and Oxfords with leather heels. These built-up heels are seen in calf and suede, the latter even in acajou red.

SKIRTS AND BLOUSES

Black satin skirts are shown with separate crepe blouses, the skirts flared at side or front, pleated or stitched, and the blouses boasting either bows or ruffles.

TWO-PIECE SWEATER SUITS

More two-piece suits are displayed in the shops than the three-piece type, and are in a great variety of tweed mixtures in soft texture and plain colors. The modernistic or geometric sweater prevails.

COLORFUL NECKLACES

Red or blue stones of a large shield shape are set alternately with rhinestones to form a strikingly different new choker and bracelet from Patou.

FOUR-PIECE SPORTS SUIT

A scarf is numbered among the four pieces of a new sweater costume. The skirt, sweater and scarf are of marie mixture in two tones and the cardigan in a solid color of still darker tone, thus making a three-tone costume.

UNIQUE COLOR COMBINATION

Would you ever have thought of this, or perhaps dared the combination yourself without the suggestion of a stylist? Green coats are displayed with brown frills and brown coats with green dresses.

VELVETEEN EVENING DRESSES

Included among stiff evening fabrics is velveteen. A smart model shown in both red and grey is in a very simple two-piece effect and camisole decolletage, the skirt but slightly circular, with a long circular panel at the right side almost sweeping the floor.

Chic Hats Make Use of Fur

IT was an October afternoon. And a warm one. Dozens of members of the gentle sex trooped through the lobby of an uptown hotel. Wives, mothers, daughters, sweethearts, schoolgirls, club women, those of serious mien plainly on business bent, transients with confused expressions on weary faces—our eyes scanned all costumes in an endeavor to find one superbly smart.

Reward came after dreary length in the guise of a woman no longer young, still slender of form, and whose face was a series of changing expressions. She was clad in a clever black coat with scarf of ermine. It might have been only the lovely brex rabbit for all we cared. Atop her greying locks was a wee toque of the fur. We smiled.

Here was a member of the sex who had wisely grasped at the first opportunity to use fur for her chapeau, conscious that its softness gave her the ultimate cachet of Parisian chic. Of fur as a millinery trimming you have heard. And have seen a bit in the shops. But, have you given it serious thought for one of your Fall hats?

Just a few of the many ways in which it is employed with skill are illustrated. Badger for a fringe trim, baby giraffe, broadtail or caracul for insets, pert little tassels of tails.

Fur recognizes no age limit. It is adorable on the wee lass and stunning on the head of her dignified grandmother. Becoming alike to matron or maid, invariably it serves to eliminate those tell-tale facial lines.

Russian Pajamas

THERE is always something different in the designs of pajamas. Among the reasonably priced imported negligees and intimate apparel displayed in alluring array at a shop near the Forties is a pajama style very Russian in effect. This is of red and white silk crepe and the blouse is worn with a broad red sash.

Velvet Feature of New Scarfs

WHAT a frivolous rejuvenescence of the shawl of our grandmothers' day is the modern scarf! Pretty shoulders seem all the more fascinating when covered or half-covered with this or that bit of silk, wool or velvet—for velvet has entered the realm of the scarf.

After innumerable seasons of silk in stripes, plaids, angles, polka dots and what not, in colors that flaunt the eye, the all velvet scarf is very beguiling.

The scarf—velvet takes several forms. Alone or in combination. The triangle pictured of transparent velvet, in black, brown, dark green or red wears a narrow incurved band and saucy bow of crepe de Chine.

But if you favor the rectangular scarf for increased comfort beneath the fur collar, sheer crepe in a solid color is very up-to-the-present-moment when its angular borders are weighted with transparent velvet in a deeper shade.

Beige crepe is the medium for the scarf sketched, its blocked border in a rich tone of brown.

Contrast the Note In Costumes

THE smartest deed in costume assembling is the selection of a frock in vivid contrast to the coat, as suggested previously in these columns.

Millady no longer matches everything in one shade, for the monotone does not register as modishly as it fails.

Adventurous souls have access to captivating combinations such as a flaming red, chateaufort or even an orange dress with a brown coat. Butterscotch yellow with blue sulphur with green, may seem fairly startling, yet either is charming when the hat perfectly matches the frock or coat.

Discreet contrast at the very least will reveal the conservative as sartorially on the qui vive. The dark coat with the bright dress will do the trick.

Color harmony is not a matter dependent upon monetary expenditure. It merely involves concentration on details of dress, attentiveness to the harmonizing of accessories such as hats, shoes, nose bags and gloves and last but not

The Longer Skirt for the Evening Gown

IRREGULARITIES pervade the mode in formal dress. The fair feminine safe within the boundaries of youth—or youthfulness, if you will—may suit her frock to her mood, to her personality, or to the occasion. She may epitomize the mysteriousness of the sophisticated or the adorable naivete of the ingenue.

Brows have been furrowed over the weighty decision of placing the length of the evening gown. Couturiers of might and designers great and small apparently have agreed on one point at least.

Hemlines shall not be even! They have dipped and swayed and they must continue to dip and sway to catch the rhythm of the dance, if dance there be. For how could the evening frock remain stiff and stodgy in an era of music and song? When slippers bespeak such volumes of intrigue and interest in line and color, it is safe to assert that the skirt length will do no more than threaten.

Synonymous with youth and dancing the robe de style is fashioned in lengthy, frothy flounces or bouffant in filmy lace or the stiffer taffeta. Such types are bewitchingly demure, the fabric shot through with gleaming threads, applied with floral motifs or adorned with ribbon bows.

The always charming lady never leaves the section of a frock to good luck or chance. She shops until she finds exactly what will convey the most impressive message of herself. It is she who thus wisely rephrases for herself the old adage,

"Apparel expresses what a woman desires."

The Peplum in Its Modernized Guise

TIMIDLY the peplum peeps from the pages of fashion's lady-book in direct contradiction to the sanctioned silhouette where hips are almost nil.

Word comes that the peplum will exert a strong influence on the evening mode. Chanel employs it with stiffening to achieve a quite different and sharply defined outline to the feminine figure.

The peplum of 1928 is versatile. It may appear in definite form or merely be suggested by tiers.

Four shaped sections in graduated lengths which dip down to the ankles on the form of the peplum in the white satin gown from Chanel, interest concentrated at the back of the model.

If yours is a slim, hipless, curveless silhouette, the peplum frock of lace with stiffened edges is a most addidly attractive type to select.

It is with a consciousness of retention and repetition that the cocktail jacket impresses itself in the evening realm. Uncertain in the Spring and Summer mode, it means now to have its way during the formal season.

You have seen lovely little chiffon frocks with their harmonizing sequined jackets and tiny caps. The dance dress in its various colors just must have a jacket to match.

One of the smartest versions is a bolero jacket in rust hued velvet which is repeated in the girdle of the dress of tulle in the same exquisite shade. This is another of the street colors so successfully employed in evening attire.

Prints Are Firmly Entrenched

CONTRARY to the usual fate which befalls all popular phases of dress, the print has been accepted as a staple in the fabric world. Designers of the textile industry are very busy this Fall with Spring designs, improving and refining them to lend fresh interest in the new patterns.

Advanced showings of silk and cotton materials from the various representative firms point strongly to a printed Summer season in 1929. And because of this absorbed interest in prints on the part of the majority of manufacturers, it is hinted that plain fabrics will be used in less quantity for the reason of their scarcity. In this case the monotone may lead the fashions of the Spring and Summer.

It is a gayer world of dress when a printed world with the solid color interspersed as accent.

Beaded Frocks Important

BEADS on evening frocks have not gone the way of all things fashionable. They now form motifs of striking effect on solid color frocks otherwise unadorned, and they also are seen in all-over designs. Beading not only is prevalent on the sheerer fabrics but finds a place on velvet as well. This is but one way of supplying animation and scintillation in the evening mode.

Eau de Cologne Disguised

QUANTILY hidden inside a grandfather's clock, an owl, a bottle windmill, a house or a church, eau de Cologne finds its way to the dressing table. The ornaments are white china with blue markings, depending upon the subject, and the clerk is likely to be almost anywhere.

Silk Suits for Winter Resorts

THE wave of prints that will be launched in fashions for resort gear and for Spring is not entirely ominous to the reign of plain colors. Silks shown at prominent houses reveal beautiful shades in satin, bengaline, moire, taffeta and faille fabrics for the silk suit of two and three pieces, destined to win high favor at Southern resorts.

Contrast combinations, decidedly new, will be achieved by means of the blouse. Yellow is mentioned as a lovely shade of peach, and red with black.

Odd Colors for Evening

Blue on the royal cast and a lovely shade of peach are included in new colors for evening frocks. Velvet, moire and tulle are displayed in this bright blue, while satin is favored for the peach shade.

Some Novelties of an Ever-Varying Mode

FASHION is not content to tell its bends over and over. New thoughts and ideas constantly break upon the surface of a season settled down to accepted vogues in color, lines and media of interpretative dress.

Sulphur arises from the spectrum as a sprightly color to enliven the world of brown. Not all can be considered of the elect to wear this shade, but if not sulphur, there is a gypsy red.

These colors for the afternoon frock of satin or crepe to accompany the luxurious coat of brown fur are at their best when used with accessories of brown. A novel treatment of hipline and drape is shown in the graceful dress sketched.

Excellent use of triple rows of stitching is manifest in Chanel's substitute for trimming on the tailored frock of wool crepe. Comfortable and youthfully smart.

White touches relieve the dark-topped wool frock. Chanel's version is the narrow fitted collar, tailored bow and cuffs of glazed linen. A vest and collar of white pique freshens a model in brown wool crepe from London Trades.

least, suitable and complementing jewelry.

Ensembles will prevail in the Spring mode. Women universally are forming the habit of paying strict attention to every minute detail. Are you one of these?

It's the Magnolia Now

If you have grown weary of wearing the gardenia season after season, but you have a yen for the artificial flower just the same, why not try the magnolia?

Slenderizing Prints

DRESSES combining two fabrics in the same print have a tendency to lessen the effect of too ample lines in the figure. Two differing patterns incline to accept any discrepancies in the gracefully curving lines of the deaired, and not altogether unobtainable, reedy silhouette.

The vogue for matching prints, originated in Paris last Spring gives promise of importance as a future style factor. Vying with companion prints is the superimposed or print over print where one design is superimposed over another.

Skull Caps of Tricot

IMITATING the tricot visor turned of the Spring and Summer are skull caps of chenille tricot shown in profusion in all the avenue shops. Many of these are wound about the head in the eyebrow line and after the manner of the bandanna tying at one side. They will be very popular it is believed for wear with fur collars.

Long Coats and Dresses

Application of Fur Trimming Alters Mode of Season's Coats—Jumper Frocks Maintain Their Popularity

It seems that the long coat over a dress is to be the fashionable uniform in the winter, says a Paris correspondent writing to The London Times. The long coat is not cut quite as it was last year, for its straightness is disguised by the way the fur trimmings are put on, and the hem line may be flared. Again, the fur trimmings are new. At the moment, astrakhan and shaved lamb are most frequent, but golden seal is coming in.

A long, wide fur shawl collar and a fur hem which runs round and shoots sharply across the front to the left hip, ending in a point, is one kind of trimming. Another is a lining of fur and a deep shawl collar of fur. Cuffs on the sleeves are deep and are like balloons or gauntlets. There are also velvet coats draped at the left side, with deep fur cuffs and collars so full, soft, and supple that they can be draped about the neck and left to fall in a cascade. Again, the straight cape-coat always has a fur collar, and may have a hem of fur which dips low behind and is rounded to elbow height at the side. As a direct contrast there is the perfectly straight coat of cloth or tweed with a shawl collar, straight cuffs of fur, and a deep fold over in front. For the country and for wet days in town there is the reofer coat with a belt at the back or all round; it fits loosely and has no fur.

VARIETY OF DRESSES

Under long coats are worn simple or elaborate dresses. For morning there is the black or colored jersey dress; for afternoon there is the printed velvet dress, beige, grey, black, red, blue, with a bright little flower or geometrical figure printed on it. For the afternoon there is the simple black crepe-satin frock or the dress of bright red georgette, crepe marocain, or crepe. These dresses have long sleeves, but if a coat is worn it has no sleeves. The two-tiered dress is popular in the afternoon; it has two flounces and a straight-cut bodice pouched behind or cut with a bolero line, long sleeves, and a neck round which is twisted a narrow flying scarf. Afternoon dresses are made black and in bright colors, and in various materials.

POPULAR FELT HATS

Hats to go with coats and dresses are small, and made of felt, rough or smooth, plain or figured, in one color or in two. Some of the felt caps which are worn are made up of diversely shaped patches sewn together with ornamental stitching. There are also satin and velvet ribbon hats to go with velvet or satin coats.

ANGORA JUMPERS

In town, under a long coat, a jumper suit is correct in the morning and permissible in the afternoon. On a cold day an Angora pull-over can be worn with a skirt of jersey, cloth, tweed, or pleated silk. These silky-looking woolen pull-overs are made of soft grey, beige, or brown, and bright patterns are worked into them. There are scarves to match. Silk skirts and jumper dresses are also worn; they are of one color and are embellished with embroidery or ornamental belts. A light or bright colored jumper suit under a long dark coat, self-lined and trimmed with fur, is popular just now.

SMART HANDBAGS

Handbags seem often very elaborate. They are made of suede, kid, silk, leather, reptile skins, brocade, silk, moire, velvet, cloth, satin and pigskin. For the evening there are bags made of old Chinese embroideries, Persian silks, hand-worked velvet and modern satin. Some are quite small, others are unusually large. Some are to be held in the hand, others hang from the wrist. The clasps are often of ivory, jade, amber, corneal and dull gold, and chains of silver and silver are attached to the mounts.

TEA-MUSICAL IS DELIGHTFUL

Local Artists Heard in Pleasing Programme Arranged by Musical Club

The Victoria Ladies' Musical Club held a most delightful musical-tea yesterday afternoon at the Y.W.C.A. reception room in which the programme was given being thronged with an appreciative and interested audience. Mrs. Guy Goddard opened the programme with a group of recitations, accompanied by Miss Eileen Dumbarton at the piano. Her numbers included "Triffin," "The Old Chestnut," by Ferns, and "A Summer Idyll," Mrs. Goddard displaying her unusual gift for recitation in these, and the concluding group which included "Day Dreams," a charming little bit of phantasy; "L'Heure Exquise," a French selection, which was one of the most popular of Mrs. Goddard's repertoire, and "The Owl and the Pussycat." In the last three numbers, Mrs. Goddard was accompanied by Miss Dumbarton at the piano and Miss Irene Black, violin, the accompaniment being somewhat an innovation in connection with recitations. As an encore, Mrs. Goddard recited Lear's "The Owl and the Pussycat."

Mrs. Dunstan MacTavish, always a favorite with local audiences, sang two solos, "The Cloths of Heaven" (Dunhill), and "Sylvia" (London). Ronald, Mrs. Laseby, was heard in Paolo Tosti's "Serenade," and Mrs. A. Milhouse, who possesses a voice of unusual appeal, sang "O Virgin Rose" and "Awake Little Flower," accompanied by Miss Alexander. Miss Audrey Wood, a young pianist of considerable ability, played "Garden in the Rain" (Debussy). Three little boys, Tom Anstey, Billy Ingilwad and Kenneth Cave, delighted the audience by their rendering of "Londonderry Air" and "Thanks Be to God," accompanied by Miss Olive Campbell, their teacher.

Tea was served by the executive, Mrs. Brian Tyrrell Drake and Mrs. Hermann Robertson, presiding at the tea table. Wednesday, November 21, has been the date set for the next recital of the club. Miss Margaret Campbell to appear as the pianist of the afternoon. Miss Campbell returned a short time ago from New York, where she has been studying with Victor Wittenstein. After her return from New York last year she made her musical debut at a concert at the Empress Hotel.

Mr. J. Frederick Stone, noted Irish singer, who recently appeared in concert in San Francisco with the symphony orchestra and whose success afforded him a return engagement, will be the soloist at next week's recital. His wife, who accompanies him, is a gifted young American pianist. This concert, combining such talent, is being looked forward to with a great deal of pleasure by music lovers of the city.

Conservative Women Meet at Headquarters

The special meeting held by the Women's Conservative Association on Friday night was well attended, with Mrs. A. Gills presiding. The members completed arrangements for a reception to be tendered the Conservative women of the city on Wednesday, November 21, in the interests of the Conservative candidate for the Federal House at Ottawa for Victoria, Mr. D. B. Plunkett. Mrs. S. Green, as chairman of the past-president's committee, reported matters well in hand for the event, and announced the following in charge. Musical programme, Mrs. S. Bowen, decorations, Mrs. Emery, Mrs. Dunbar, Mrs. S. Roberts; refreshments, Mrs. Chivers and Mrs. Toms. Several prominent speakers will give addresses during the afternoon, and it is expected the affair will be held at Conservative headquarters.

SCHUBERT CLUB

Victoria String Quartette Will Appear at Schubert Club Recital on November 20

The Schubert Club will appear on Tuesday evening, November 20, at the Victoria High School, in its opening concert of the season. The all-Schubert programme, which is being prepared, promises to be a most interesting and attractive one. A new aggregation of talented musicians to be heard throughout the season, and known as the Victoria String Quartette, will make its first appearance at the club's recital. The personnel of this quartette is Mr. F. Gratian, first violin; Miss Dorothy Francis, second violin; Miss Wilkinson, viola, and Mr. Harold Taylor, violoncello.

Since its inauguration, five years ago, this choir has built up to its present enviable standard of efficiency under the leadership of Mr. Frederick King. Many delightful programmes have been rendered, in all of which a wonderful interpretation of the spirit of the works of the various composers was manifested, the details having been worked out with thought and precision and thereby showing to advantage the fine ensemble singing of the choir. Included among the four groups of Schubert's compositions, the club will sing "Who Is Sylvia?" "Night," Shakespeare's "Hark, Hark

Great French Sculptor, Maillol, Is Showing Brilliant Work at Goupil Galleries—London to Have "Loan Exhibition" of Dutch Pictures in the New Year—Mrs. Amice McPherson Discusses on English Psychology—New Musical Club Appreciated

By ELIZABETH MONTIZAMBERT

The great minor excitement at the beginning of the week was the miniature cyclone that cut a narrow swathe of damage along one or two streets. I live within an actual stone's throw of the big hotel where the wind rushed into the dining-room and played strange tricks with the plates and the chimney, yet not a leaf on my roof garden was disarranged while plate glass windows were being made the sport of the wind a few yards away. The gale only lasted half a minute but was of such force that it is lucky more people were not hurt.

If Londoners and their visitors don't appreciate art, that can't be the fault of the people who arrange delectable exhibitions for them to look at, and lectures to teach them how to look.

That great French sculptor, Maillol, is showing some of his brilliant work at the Goupil Galleries. I remember being taken to see him in his Paris studio during the war by Jane Poupelet who is, I believe, the most famous woman sculptor in France.

Maillol had had many German patrons before the war and rumor, who may or may not have been a lying jade in this, has it that some of them, whose love of art had overcome their sense of humor, telegraphed to him in the last days of July.

"Cache bien tes statues, nous venons a Paris dans dix jours." The advice was prudently taken and at least one lovely bronze acquired an unwelcome patina from this temporary burial.

At the Fine Arts Gallery there is a room full of Emma Clardi's delicious Venetian scenes painted with an intimate charm.

No one who wants to see contemporary art in London should Hotel last Tuesday it would have felt at home. The semicircle of men and women music lovers were probably far more beautifully dressed than the small German court but the musical atmosphere, the harpichord and the brilliant rendering of the music by Anthony Bernard's celebrated orchestra were all reminiscent of the court musical gatherings in the Eighteenth Century. The new English Music Society, of which this was the first of their six performances during the winter, was started last summer to give its members a chance to hear, in pleasant surroundings, chamber music not often played in ordinary concert rooms. So far the two concerts given have been a great success. Among the people who were listening with pleasure last Tuesday to the Bach Overture in C, and a curiously attractive "Tritico Tritico" by Respighi—the first performance in England—were Lady Margaret Boscawen, the Prince and Princess Reginald de Croix, Captain and Mrs. Vivian Bullock-Johnston, Kathleen, Viscountess Falmouth, and Mrs. Philip Snowden.

NELSON DAY

It is curious how the cult of Nelson seems to grow as the passing years only serve to intensify the realization of his greatness. On the twenty-first more wreaths than ever were heaped round the base of his column in Trafalgar Square, and the lions wreathed as usual in laurel festooned from their necks looked more smug and conscious of their honor.

Poor lions! Nelson Day must be a relief from the red-hot nonsense they are compelled to hear every Sunday from the rabid orators.

The next London pageant will be the Lord Mayor's show on the ninth and this year there are to be wonderful things in the procession including reproductions of the plans of the Great Fire and the Guildhall. I remember that the first time I caught sight of those terrifying wooden figures was at a meeting during the war, when Mr. Asquith was explaining the country's needs to a deeply moved audience. Down from their corners in the gallery glared these two immense effigies. I found afterwards that they had been carved in the beginning of the Eighteenth Century by a certain Captain Richard Saunders, and that similar figures made of wickerwork, and supposed in some mysterious way to typify the dignity of the city, used to be carried in the Lord Mayor's processions till they were burnt along with so many more valuable things in the Great Fire of 1666.

EMPIRE NOTES

Although Christmas seems a long way off there are already signs that people are beginning to make their preparations for it. The announcements of the Christmas Bazaars at which one is implored to buy one's presents, are appearing, the shops are labelling their prettiest things, "Suitable for Gifts," and the part of the paper dedicated to women already contains articles, usually by some titled journalist, on how to make or choose presents.

People interested in Empire affairs are taking advantage of this spirit and publishing recipes for "Empire Plum Puddings" and the like, and I have seen somewhere a charming menu for an Empire dinner, taken, no doubt from that charming menu for an Empire Marketing Board, "Empire Dinners."

The Imperial Institute, always in the forefront of these endeavors, is arranging another exhibition of the work of disabled ex-service men. It will last from November 7 till November 17 and be open on Armistice Day.

THE LONDON THEATRE

After so many harsh things said lately about the London theatre, it is a double delight to announce the arrival of two quite delicious plays. To be sure there is nothing surprising in either, for one is due to the discerning judgment that has already given Londoners the chance to see, "The Romantic Young Lady," "The Cradle Song" and "The Kingdom of Heaven," and the other to the wit and genius of Sir Nigel Playfair.

At the Court Theatre Mr. Amner Hall is producing two more of the Spanish plays now associated with his name, "Fuente Ovejuna" and "The by the brothers Quintero, done in to English by Mr. and Mrs. Granville Barker. The first is a "tragic farce," three scenes in the life of a poor old ex-clerk seeking work to give bread to five starving children. Ill-luck dogs him till in a frenzy of self-sacrifice he suffers his terror and stands up against a back cloth while a music hall rifle performer outlines his silhouette with bullets.

Mr. O. B. Clarence, as the pauper, was so profoundly moving that one almost lost sight of the extreme brilliance of his performance.

This play was followed by a comedy in two acts where Guillian Scafe, who I am told grew up in Vancouver, presented such an adorable portrait of the benevolent "Lady From Alhambra" whose patient husband was obliged to harbor every rascal who could prove he came from her beloved native town, that I, for one, did not find the play at all too long. Both of them breathed a fragrance not often met with in the theatre. You could no more demand plot from these plays than you could ask a rose to give you a quinine pill, but what they give is beautiful and not lightly to be missed.

Mr. Nigel Playfair has added another triumph to his long list in producing Sheridan's play at the Lyric Hammeronith. It is really only to last three weeks but he hopes not and that one will see Marie Ney going mad in white satin, and hear James Dale declaim Ruff's marvellous speech on the part of puffing, and Hay Petri as Darius, and Sir Nigel himself speaking the prologue for a much longer time.

Mr. A. P. Herbert's jolly nonsense must wait till next week.

An old negro was asking a friend's advice on how to apply for a rise in wage.

Said the friend, "Just you go up to the master, Sam, and say, 'Look here, master, you must give me a rise, or else I'll—' Say it just like that; then he'll think you mean to leave unless you get the rise."

Sam went to the master and said: "Look here, master, you've got to give me a rise, or else I'll—"

"Else you'll what?" snapped his employer.

Sam scratched his head in perplexity, then answered, "Else I go

Balcony Not Part of House, Says Court in Liquor Prosecution

MONTREAL, Nov. 9.—Does a cupboard on a balcony constitute part of a residence? Judge Cusson recently decided that it could not, and he accordingly acquitted A. Rouleau, charged in the Liquor Court with being in possession of five gallons of alcohol. The liquor was seized in a cupboard in the rear of the home of the accused.

Officers of the Commission testified they went to the residence of the accused and discovered in a cupboard, fitted with a false bottom, the five gallons of alcohol produced in court. Rouleau was the proprietor of the house, they said.

Rouleau brought a witness who testified that the alcohol related belonged to him, and not to the accused. He said that he was a lodger in Rouleau's home and used the trap-bottom cupboard on the balcony to store the fluid from time to time. He swore that Rouleau had no knowledge that the alcohol was kept there. Rouleau's defence was along these lines.

Leonie Plante, K.C., for the defence asked that the charge be dismissed in view of the ignorance of the accused that alcohol was kept on the balcony by his lodger. Judge Cusson pointed out that the law stated clearly that "guilty knowledge" did not have to be proven for conviction. "But," he continued, "on the facts of this case I am inclined to feel that the accused is not guilty. If I could find some legal basis for acquitting him, I should be inclined to do so. But the law is clear. The man who tolerates illegal possession in his own residence is guilty equally with the possessor, and he is supposed to know what is being kept by others in his house."

Mr. Plante was not long in finding some basis for the acquittal of his client. "What do they mean by 'residence' under the Liquor Law?" he asked. "They define it as meaning the place in which a man lives, including the cellar thereof. Now I submit that the liquor was not found in his residence, because it was found in a cupboard on the balcony. That was not the cellar, and surely it cannot be claimed that a man might live in a cupboard."

Judge Cusson agreed that the definition did not cover the case and threw out the charge.

A case is on record of an Irish judge who asked a question which brought an unexpected answer: "A typical Irish peasant was charged with the murder of a land agent who had had the audacity to sue him for rent three years overdue, and when the unlettered savage entered the dock he was greatly impressed by the rows of bewigged lawyers."

From then his gaze wandered to the scarlet-robed figure on the bench, and overcome by curiosity he whispered something to the warder at his side to which the latter promptly replied.

"What did the prisoner say?" asked the judge, peremptorily. The warder went red in the face and did not answer.

"What did the prisoner say?" His Lordship repeated.

"I hardly like to repeat it, My Lord," said the unfortunate official. "It was something about Your Lordship."

"Never mind that, let's have it," said the judge.

There was a short pause during which everybody in court prepared to listen to the repetition of the brief dialogue between the prisoner and the warder.

"He said to me he said," said the latter, "Who's the old man in the red night shirt? and I said to him, 'Shut up, ye omadawn, that's the owl fella who's going to hang ye.'"

A London movie theatre will employ only red-headed girls as usherettes, and has engaged twenty of them.

THE POWER CURVE

With the starting of a fire in a grate, the fire would be hard to start — without wood chips or kindling, the fire would not carry on to the heavier wood chunks, and ultimately to the coal. Without wood or coal there would be no sustained heat.

The same principle is applied to Home Gas—without the light, volatile portions being present, an engine is difficult to start and without the proper balancing of the boiling point of the other hydrocarbons, the power stroke is imperfect. From the light flashy substance to the heavier spirit for sustained power, Home Gas has a perfect Boiling Point Range, as the above original record chart indicates.

OMEN OF EUROPE IN REVOLT AGAINST WAR

James Murphy, of Dublin, speaks in Montreal on Devaluation of Human Life

MONTREAL, Nov. 8.—To understand the women of Europe today, must understand their reaction to the devaluation of life manifested in the war, said Dr. James Murphy, of Dublin, who addressed the Montreal Women's Club in the Hotel Royal Hotel recently. In his lecture, Dr. Murphy sought to convey to his audience an understanding of the situation in Europe, and particularly in England, today, economically and in terms of human life. He pointed to certain phases of the situation as promising freedom from future wars.

"We cannot understand the position in the British Empire and in the world in general today if we continue trying to see it through the smoke screen of emotional prejudices set up during the war, and unfortunately lasting too long as a hang-over after the war," the lecturer said at the outset. He dealt with economic and industrial competitions and rivalries as underlying causes of the war, and passed on to consider adjustments since the remaking of the map of Europe at Versailles. At present the development of industry has led to organization that oversteps international boundaries. The International Cartel of 1926 brought the whole economic region of the Rhine Basin together so that it can function industrially independent of political divisions. It was such a state of affairs that Germany had hoped for at the beginning of the war, he declared, with this difference—Germany had hoped to see itself as the dictator of these cartels while at present they were administered jointly by the nations participating. England faced a difficult problem in this industrial competition, but the lecturer believed that the people were coping with the situation. The principle of founding a council between industrial employers and the leaders of the workmen was referred to as most promising for the future. In this connection Dr. Murphy declared emphatically that the British workmen are not "Reds," but are soundly patriotic. Another phase of the aftermath of the war had to do with its human impact. Millions of women had been left "orphaned in a No-Man's Land." In the mother soul of the nations there is a great revulsion against the devaluation of life manifested in the Great War. "The section of the race that produces human life is rising up in revolt against the mutilation and destruction of life, the mass murder that is called war."

If life was regarded cheaply on the battlefield, it was devalued also at the source of life, womanhood itself. Throughout Europe today there was the unconscious aim and determination of women to see that mankind of the future valued human life, and it was felt that this valuation must begin at the source of life itself.

A distinguished member of the French Embassy was a guest at the silver wedding celebration of an eminent bishop. Learning over to his neighbor, the Frenchman asked, sotto voce, "Tell me, mon ami, what are these silver wedding which we celebrate? I do not understand."

"Oh," replied his neighbor, (the bishop's nephew) "don't you know? Why, my uncle, the bishop, and my aunt have lived together for twenty-five years without having been separated, and without having any quarrels in that time."

"Ah!" exclaimed the diplomat, heartily, a light breaking upon him. "And now, he marry her? Bravo, Bravo."

Bridegroom—Would you mind if I went into the smoking compartment, dear?

Bride—To smoke?

"Oh, dear, no! I want to experience the agony of being away from you, so that the joy of my return will be all the more intensified."

FIVE C'S WILL MEET CITY IN MILTON CUP FINAL

Leading Swimmers to Compete Here in Big Water Gala Tomorrow

Pick of Pacific Coast Aquatic Stars Will Be in Action at Crystal Garden When British Columbia and Canadian Titles Will Be at Stake

Leading swimmers of the Pacific Coast will gather in the Capital City today, and tomorrow will be seen in action in the slowly rippling waters of the Crystal Garden pool. Swimmers and divers, who have competed in many games, will be on hand in an effort to add British Columbia and possibly Canadian titles to their aquatic performances. The occasion is the sixteenth annual water gala of the Victoria Amateur Swimming Club, while the programme, which includes a number of Canadian and British Columbia championship events, is one of the best to be presented here for many years. The first event will start at 8 o'clock.

Approximately twenty-five will make the Vancouver contingent one of the largest to invade this city in many months. The group contains some of the leading speed demons and divers developed on the Mainland. From Portland comes "Blondy" Rievelley and Dana Thomas. The former is a diver of great merit, while the latter is rated as one of the best distance swimmers on the Coast.

Tommy Welburn and Audrey Griffin are the two star performers on whom Victoria's hopes will be pinned. Welburn has held a number of records, while Audrey has kicked her heels to a number of the best female aquatic performers in Canada.

In addition to this pair of stars several other local swimmers will be seen in action.

The schoolboys' championship event over 100 yards promises to be a keenly-contested affair. A number of coming swimmers have entered in hopes of carrying off the Lieutenant-Governor Bruce Medal.

brought the result to eight goals to four against the local team. Miss Dawson-Thomas left the field with its goals to her credit, and Miss Res scored the other two for the winners. For Victoria Miss Harris scored two, Miss Swayne one and Mrs. Ley one.

The state of the grounds left a good deal to be desired. It was a case of "water, water everywhere," and this fact worried more than one player. Miss Miller, for Victoria, put up a pretty game, and deserves special mention.

The line-ups were as follows:
Victoria (men) — Bird, Porter, Grant, Hinton, Phillips, Wilson, Clark, Hodgson (captain), Williams, Clarkson and Winship.
Victoria (ladies) — Wilkinson, Staples, Langtry, Barkley, Hall, Shaw, Dobell, Annandale, Worley, Dunlop (captain), and Forbes.

Cowichan (ladies) — Mrs. Brock, Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Dunlop, Mrs. Palmer, Miss Staples, Mrs. Springett, Mrs. Scholey, Miss Res, Miss Dawson-Thomas, Miss Lyon (captain), and Miss Hogan.

English Cricket Eleven Piles Up Tremendous Score

SYDNEY, Australia, Nov. 10.—The touring cricket team representing England, put up further records today in their first innings against New South Wales. The innings was declared closed when the huge total of 744 for seven wickets was reached. Hammond and Hendren broke new ground when they scored 335 for the fourth wicket. Their partnership in the best fourth wicket stand in first-class cricket. Hammond, whose score was 225, set a new mark for an individual player in England. New South Wales matches.

Yesterday Jardine set a record by securing the third of three straight centuries in the first innings of his opening games against Australian eleven. Hendren set up 167. New South Wales had lost three wickets for 52 runs when stumps were drawn.

Crippled Victoria Rugby Team Loses to Varsity

U.B.C. Defeats Capitals, 16-5—Student Substitute Scores Lone Local Try—New Westminster Finally Gets a Victory

VANCOUVER, Nov. 10.—In the closing game of the "Big Four" Canadian Rugby series at Athletic Park this afternoon, Varsity won 16-5 over Victoria for its sixth straight victory. Victoria came over crippled by injuries, and Varsity was forced to send in three of their intermediates to give United Comrades a line of substitutes.

It was one of these substitutes, Wilnot, who scored the lone touchdown for the Islanders. Six of the Varsity's strongest men were out of the line-up, crippled in action last week-end. In the game today the play of Dixon and Dixon stood out.

O'Meara Is Recovering From His Accident

X-RAY pictures of Cliff O'Meara's injury yesterday, showed that the Victoria ice hockey player had no bones broken Friday when he collided with Redpath and Kenny during a practice. It was feared that O'Meara may have sustained a broken jawbone. He is expected to be out at the next workout.

ADVANCE SALE OF YOUNGSTERS BAD BUSINESS

Coast League Critics State That Lary-Reese Outburst Due to Yankee's Purchase

BOTH SHOWED POOR FORM ALL SEASON

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Are the Yankees' recruits from the Pacific Coast League, Jimmy Reese and Lyn Lary, worth the $125,000 said to have been paid to the Oakland club for their releases a year ago? When the deal was put through the Yankees agreed to allow these expensive youngsters to remain with Oakland during the late season to gain more experience before reporting to Miller Huggins in Florida next Spring. At the conclusion of the recent Coast League grind Reese and Lary were sitting on the bench as a result of indifferent playing. An Oakland writer describes their fall from grace in this way:

"The closing days of the Coast League season found Reese, one of the 'million dollar kids,' sold to the New York Yankees, sitting on the bench at the Oakland club, while the veteran Ray Brubaker flired in at second base. It is alleged that Reese adopted a 'why worry?' attitude during the late season, while the Oakland manager was busy with the world championship. Lary, too, developed a case of temperamentalism and also was allowed to cool his heels in the clubhouse while Monroe Dean took his place at short stop.

"Incidentally, Coast League critics are satisfied that selling 'kid' players to major league clubs before delivery is bad business. It is unfair to other clubs in the big circuits, in that it gives desirable recruits and burdens the seller with disgruntled stars for one year.

"If Lary and Reese had played their 1927 game this year the Oakland manager would have been right. But the Yankees' recruits evidently didn't care to overexert themselves and consequently were of little or no value."

The Yankees denied a report last Summer that they had decided to summer their option on Lary and Reese, who have been ordered to report for duty next March.

VANCOUVER REPS DEFEAT EDMONTON

Coast Rugger Prove Far Too Good for Prairie Squad and Win 22 to 3

VANCOUVER, Nov. 10.—Vancouver "Reps" administered a crushing defeat on the Edmonton English Rugger team at Brockton Point this afternoon by a count of 22 to 3. The visitors, who are decidedly a better side than any that have played on the Coast in either of the past two years, held their own in the opening half when the score was 6-0. In the second half, however, the home side had much to learn of the play and earned the victory.

On Monday Varsity plays Edmonton.

Hornsby to Report To Cubs Wednesday

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—Rogers Hornsby will officially become a member of the Cubs next Wednesday, when he will arrive to talk terms with President W. L. Veeck.

The signing, however, is only a formality, as the Cubs took over the contract Hornsby had with Boston, which called for an approximate salary of $40,000 a year. It has two years to run.

The Wednesday League team, which will be managed by Jack Maxwell and captained by the veteran net minder Percy Shrimpton, looks exceptionally strong on paper. In fact it appears to be one of the best teams that the midweek loop has put out for many a moon. Shrimpton, who will be in his regular position between the sticks, is rated as the peer of local goalies.

In front of him will be Frank Tupman and Hagen. The former player is perhaps one of the best known in the city and for a number of seasons played with the Sons of England, eleven in the Saturday League. Hagen, his partner on the defense, is one of the younger stars having been first discovered when he played with Cranleigh House School team in the Wednesday Football League a few years ago. Both are good kickers, as clever with their heads as with their feet, and should prove a great stumbling block to the opposing first line of attack.

The halfback line, composed of Roberts, Al McKinnon and Dave Stewart, is perhaps one of the best in the city. Roberts, a member of the Navy eleven, is a hard worker, has a good knowledge of the game and places the leather well. Al McKinnon, who will occupy the pivot position, needs no introduction to the fans. His many years of activity with the round ball game stamps him as one of the best centre halves in the game today. Dave Stewart, left half, is another of the younger stars, but a player who is showing the earmarks of a seasoned veteran. Stewart is a fast and clever player. The first line of attack sees Jack Taylor on the right wing, Robinson on the left, Tommy Watt centre forward, Teddy Hawkes inside left, and "Dutch" Davies on the wing. This looks like a good combination of speed, footwork and everything that a forward line should be.

ROYALS COME TO LIFE

NEW WESTMINSTER, Nov. 10.—Royals came to life when the big battle for championship honors was all over and won the last game of the "Big Four" League here today by an 8-6 score, over their Vancouver opponents. It was one of the best struggles of the season, and a large number of fans were given a real exhibition of the Canadian code.

Numbers on Horse's Head Help Judges

AN innovation in racing is the use of numbers on the horses' heads as well as on the saddle cloths. Here is the device which was used at Tanforan Park, San Francisco. The numbers were made in Canada and the idea originated with A. M. Orpen's Kenilworth Park at Windsor, Ont., but were discarded after the first use because they were too large. Mr. Cullen made several new sets of a smaller size and Marshall Cassidy rebounded them from Tanforan that they have proved a success. The photograph shows the use of the device on a feature race at Tanforan in which Alex. Pantages, No. 11, won. The photograph shows the use of the device on a feature race at Tanforan in which Alex. Benefit Soccer Game Carded for Tomorrow With All-Star Teams

Pick of Saturday League Will Battle Wednesday Loop Stars at Royal Athletic Park at 2:30 o'clock—Gate Receipts for Injured Goalie

In an effort to aid Stanley Davis, injured goalie of the Five C's Post-Injured goalies of the Victoria and District Saturday and Wednesday Football Leagues are staging an exhibition game at the Royal Athletic Park at 2:30 o'clock on Thanksgiving Day. Hewison will handle the whistle, while F. Oliver and A. McKay will act as line-men.

Davis, it will be remembered, had the misfortune to break his right leg in the opening game of the season, and ever since has been confined to his bed at the Jubilee Hospital. It is understood that the ticket receipts from the game will go to assist the unfortunate player.

Not one cent of expense is being incurred in the staging of the match, which gives promise of being a very successful affair. The success of the venture will, of course, depend on the number of fans who attend, that every lover of sport, be it soccer or any other game, will be on hand to see the match and to support the injured player.

However, it seems safe to assume that the match will be a success. The usual price of admission will be charged.

STRONG TEAM
The Wednesday League team, which will be managed by Jack Maxwell and captained by the veteran net minder Percy Shrimpton, looks exceptionally strong on paper. In fact it appears to be one of the best teams that the midweek loop has put out for many a moon. Shrimpton, who will be in his regular position between the sticks, is rated as the peer of local goalies.

This looks like a good combination of speed, footwork and everything that a forward line should be.

SATURDAY TEAM
Willoughby, a mere youngster, has been assigned the goalie's position in the Saturday League. He is a very promising player and is expected to turn in a good performance. Joe Crowe and Harper, the two fullbacks, are a pair of hefty kickers, each having a fair share of weight and speed, and should prove hard to pass. Kelman, Peden and Preston, the first line of defense, look fairly sound. They are all seasoned players and will be looked upon to turn in steady performance. The forward line is one composed of the younger stars of the league, and one that carries plenty of speed, aggressiveness, and in fact, all that is needed for a scoring first line of attack. Sutton will be on the right wing and Cameron on the left. Claude Bissell will function at centre forward, with Wagland on his left, and John Watt on his right.

An unusual amount of interest is being taken in the match and when the whistle is blown it is expected that the teams in action it is expected that one of the largest crowds in years will be on hand. In fact fans from each league will be there cheering their favorites to victory, to a victory that for a time at least, will establish the much discussed superiority between the two loops. The teams will line up as follows: Wednesday League—Shrimpton (captain), Hudson's Bay, Hagen, Banach United, Tupman, Rennie & Taylor, Roberts, Navy, McKinnon, Rennie & Taylor, Stewart, Rennie & Taylor.

CHURCHMEN DEFEAT GREENSHIRTS 1-0; THISTLES LOSE 5-3

Eden Quainton Nets Lone Counter in Hectic Struggle at Royal Athletic Park—Victoria City Turn Tables on Saanich Thistles in Fast Game at Beacon Hill Before Record Crowd

Victory of Five C's Over Victoria West Is Biggest Upset of Season

Five C's vs. Victoria City. That's how the teams will line up in the Milton Cup soccer final. The Churchmen, who are the biggest surprise packet of the present soccer season yesterday afternoon, at the Royal Athletic Park, when they pushed Victoria West out of the running by a 1-0 score in a hectic battle. Eden Quainton, clever centre-forward of the C's, banged the leather home with a hot shot in the dying moments of the first half.

At Beacon Hill, Victoria City turned the tables on the Saanich Thistles when they chalked up a 5-3 victory in a fast battle in which the outcome was in doubt until the final blast of Referee McKay's whistle. Victoria City were on the long end of a 3-1 count at the rest interval. In the second half they brought the score to 5-1 before the Saanich Thistles showed their fighting spirit, and ran in two goals in quick succession, one of which was scored on a penalty kick. In fact, in the last twenty minutes of the game, when it appeared to be all over but the shouting, the lovers showed plenty of fight, and were peppering their opponent's goal from all angles.

At time was getting shorter, the tenacity of the Thistles' attack was beginning to tell on the City, and their goal was subjected to an almost continual bombardment. It was a happy Thistle team when the final whistle sounded with the score 5-3 in their favor.

A McKay refereed and the teams were: Victoria City—Bridges, Margison, Tuckwell, Stoffer, Preston, McKay, Campbell, Burns, C. Bissell, D. Bissell and Cameron.

Saanich Thistles—Rogers, Joe Crowe, Harper, Campbell, Vignere, Jim Crowe, Morehouse, D'Arcy, Essler, Minnis and Ewing.

In one of the roughest games of soccer played on a local field for many years, the Five C's not only handed the Victoria West eleven their initial defeat of the year by a 1-0 score at the Royal Athletic Park but provided the season's upset.

The first ten minutes of the first half was clear and sunny, but from then to the end of the game Referee Woodley had no control over the players and as a result they did what they pleased with the ball, ranging the referee and spectators on the side lines, charging the goalies, especially W. W. Houghby, in the net for the Five C's, were frequent occurrences that should have been stopped. Bill Passmore, right half for the West, was ordered off the field for using abusive language while "Tools" Plump, centre for the same eleven, was warned at least five times for not keeping his feet. He was continually in argument with the C's backs, Church and Harwood, and claimed he was blocked from getting to the goal in a most unbecoming manner, but no action was taken.

The C's took the offensive at the commencement and tested Hetherington with great ease. Hamer nearly registered their first tally, when he sent a wicked drive which the West goalie was forced to act quickly to save. Shortly after Quainton sent a terrific shot that was labeled goal but it hit the post. Twice in succession Plump was ordered out of the game for charging the goalie in fashion that drew criticism from the spectators. The West pressed hard for ten minutes, but Willoughby, tending his goal, was a spectacular manner and prevented scoring. Overton, wing man for the winners, missed a perfect chance when he kicked the ball into his net, an aimless shot that was labeled goal, but it hit the post. J.B.A.A. and Scottish Run Up Victories in Senior Rugby League

Bays Defeat Pirates 6 to 0 in Opening Game, While 16th Scottish Blank Navy Fifteen Under by 24 to 0 Score

Two tries by the aggressive Campbell Forbes gave J.B.A.A. their first opening fixture in the Senior Rugby League yesterday afternoon by a 6-0 score over the Pirates. The game produced good, hard and different Rugby, with plenty of whistle thrown in. A small crowd attended.

The Bays fielded a fair team, despite the absence of several of their stars, who were playing the Canadian code at Vancouver, and were easily the best team. They had the edge in both halves, but the Pirates fought all the distance. Forbes scored in each session.

Askey, one of the oarsmen's pack was accidentally kicked in the face about fifteen minutes after play opened and was taken to the Jubilee Hospital suffering from a bad cut on his nose. Four stitches were required to close the wound.

The J.B.A.A. had a big edge in the first half and were on the attack most of the time. Campbell Forbes after five minutes of play went over for the opening score on a forward rush. He failed to convert, but the Bays pressed, and several free kicks against them lost their territory. Campbell Forbes tried two drops on penalty kicks, but both sailed wide of the mark.

A forward rush headed by Campbell Forbes carried the ball over the line, but twenty-five kicks resulted.

The Pirates made their most dangerous move of this half near the close, when their forward line went to attack. George McRae and Florence worked a dribble, but the latter kicked a little too far when just on the line, and a Bay player took the ball. The whistle sounded as this play ended.

Many changes were made in the Bay line-up in the second half, but as in the opening session their plan failed to heel the ball out at any time. The Pirates from the outset began attacking and twice looked dangerous before they were stopped. A forward rush headed by Campbell Forbes took play from the Bays end to the Pirate line, and following a five-yard scrum, Campbell Forbes crashed his way over the line.

His kick from a difficult angle was perfect, but it hit the uprights and bounced back.

Shortly after the kick-off, young Cockin, who played a great game at halfback for the Bays, made a great run from midfield to near the line before he was stopped. Forbes tried another drop goal on a free kick, but once again failed.

For a few minutes forced the pace and had the oarsmen playing a strictly defensive game, but they failed to break through for a score, and another forward rush put the Bays in their twenty-five line, where it remained until the final whistle.

Campbell Forbes, McLean and Cockin were the outstanding men for the Bays. Dan and Harry Parfitt and George McRae worked hard for the Pirates. Acland refereed and the teams were:

J.B.A.A.—Bruce Porter, W. Skilling, Warnock, Cavins, Askey, Watson, Campbell Forbes, Locke, Gord and Moss.

Pirates—Noel, Chingraves, Boudock, H. Parfitt, Graves, Davis, Diespecker, Florence, G. McRae, Cornelle, Henry, Stocks, Lemm, D. Parfitt and Acland.

converted. Stag, of the Navy, got in some deadly kicking during the next few minutes, and halted some dangerous looking plays. Just before the final whistle Bill Peden hurried himself through for the final try, which was unconverted.

The play of the Wenman brothers was excellent, while Alexander and Bernard also looked good for the Scottish. Barker, Stagg and Stewart starred for the Navy. Doug Wilson refereed and the teams were:

16th Scottish—Kennedy, Oliver, Henderson, Cabellu, Alexander, Pollard, Ray, Wenman, Holt, Russell, Lamb, Hagmon, Bernard, Parfitt, Peden and G. Wenman.

Navy—Holmes, Hubert, Barker, Stagg, McIntosh, Parker, Creery, W. Stewart, Hargreaves, May, Massingham, Bryson, Corville, Robinson and Clarke.

Derby County held lead in English First

Defeat Leicester City to Remain at Top of Averages—Blackburn Rovers Draw With Bury

Rangers Still Remain Unbeaten

LONDON, Nov. 10.—Winning their match today in impressive style, Derby County entered with a slender lead in the club averages in the First Division of the English Soccer League. Derby County defeated Leicester City, Blackburn Rovers, Cup holders, and for a while at the head of the league, were the only team to have not been beaten in the league.

The Rovers were playing at home, which made their defeat a great disappointment. They will hold second place this week because Leeds United lost to Bolton Wanderers, Sheffield Wednesday to Arsenal, and Manchester United to Preston.

In the Second Division, Notts County could only get a point because Clapton held them to a draw. The County will remain at the head of the table. Hull City, second team, had a bad beating at Bradford City, who have now won their first game since they came back to form by beating Preston North End by the score of 2-0.

In the Scottish First Division, Rangers kept their slate clean by defeating Falkirk. They are now the only team in the British Isles who have not lost a league game this year. The meeting between Hearts and Motherwell was disappointing. Hearts being the masters at all stages of the match.

TOM HEENEY ON WAY BACK TO NEW YORK

Contender for Throne Vacated by Retirement of Gene Tunney, and Wife Pass Through City

IMMIGRATION MEN BROTHER MEN

Tom Heenev, the man who Gene Tunney, now retired heavyweight champion, repulsed at Madison Square Garden.

New York, Nov. 10.—Tom Heenev, passed through the city Saturday morning aboard the R.M.S. Niagara en route to New York to enter the elimination bouts for the title of world champion, vacated by Gene Tunney.

Heenev, who was accompanied by his wife, the couple passed through Victoria last August on their way to New Zealand to visit Heenev's parents. The challenger looked in the pink of condition yesterday, and it is a little doubtful if he will be a strong aspirant for the crown.

The New Zealander intends to participate in Rickard's elimination series, which are already under way in New York. Included in the elimination series are Tommy Loughran, light-heavyweight champion of the world; Knute Hanson, Jack Sharkey, the Boston bantamweight champion; and the "Wild Bull" of the Panama, and the only man to knock the famous Jack Dempsey out of the ring. Paulino, the woodchopper, and Phil Scott, another English contender, although Mickey Walker has not entered Rickard's contests, he is put down by several critics as the next heavyweight champion.

Heenev will proceed to New York, where he will get in touch with his manager, Charlie Harvey, and the famous promoter. The showing he made against the marine leads many sports writers to believe he will be next champion of the heavyweights.

TRIOLE ON MAINLAND
VANCOUVER, Nov. 10.—Tom Heenev, New Zealand heavyweight fighter, had a worrisome time here today when it looked as though he could not leave for New York until Tuesday, because the United States immigration authorities could not consider him as a tourist or an immigrant, and hesitated about allowing his entry. He was finally allowed to proceed when he put up a $500 bond. He is going to New York by way of Toronto, but wanted his papers fixed up here to avoid delay in Toronto.

CAPITALS WIN IN FAST HOOP GAME 37 TO 35

C.P.S. Cagers Take Second Defeat of Season in Bitterly-Contested and Heavy-Checking Battle

AXIOMS AND SUPER SERVICE ALSO WIN

Demonstrating their ability to get baskets when they are needed, Capitals defeated the Canadian Puget Sound quintette 37-35 in a hard-checking and bitterly-contested battle at the Y.M.C.A. last night. The victory gives the Capitals a one-game lead over their opponents in the men's senior "A" division of the city hoop league. The Caps were leading 30-17 at the rest interval.

In the second half the C.P.S. held their own, but as they rallied and went close to their opponents' score Capitals stepped out and dropped the leather home to stay out in front. With seven minutes to go the scoreboard read, Capitals 31, C.P.S. 25. The latter team soon closed the margin and with five minutes to go only one field basket separated the teams, with the score standing 33-31 in favor of the winners. L. Fatt dropped in a basket to make it 35 and then Tommy Watcher dropped in two points, bringing the Capitals total to 37.

"Bud" Hooking scored with a long shot, while Butler and Fagerberg each netted the ball on a foul shot to make the C.P.S. total 35. W. Skillings, of the Caps, sprained his left ankle early in the game and had to retire.

Le Marquand refereed and the teams were:
Capitals—McKenzie, W. Skillings, Willoughby, Watcher, Boyd, Forbes and Hall.
C.P.S.—Dowds, Butler, Hooking, Fagerberg, S. Skillings, Woodridge and Davis.

AXIOMS WIN

In the opening game Axioms ladies' "B" ran all over the New Method Laundry quintette for a 24-3 victory. The winners, by a long way the better team, were all right on the right end of the score and were never in trouble. K. Freestone and B. Webster, with 6 points each, led the sharpshooters.

Jack Taylor refereed and the teams were:
Axioms—K. Freestone (4), J. Anderson, B. Burch (4), K. Freestone (4), B. Webster (6), R. Bethel (4) and A. Lang.
New Method Laundry—H. Beck, M. Barr (2), E. Tivy (1), K. Moody, L. Zarell (5), Zarell, I. Couch and M. Minnis.

CRESCENTS GO UNDER

Crescents Intermediate "A" hoopers started their rally against the Victoria Super Service Station quintette last night with a result went down to a 25-17 defeat. Super Service Station were able to chalk up a fairly safe lead in the early stages of the game, and when their opponents put on a rally they proved sufficiently strong enough to hold them in check. Cupid led the scorers with 10 points.

Bob Whyte refereed and the teams were:
Victoria Super Service Station—Crescents—L. Jones (5), Spence, Lowe (6), McConnell (4), Temple (2) and V. Jones.

BIG BROTHER LEADER COMES

Capt. R. T. Thornton Proposes to Introduce Practice Which Has Proved Beneficial

Captain R. T. Thornton, who arrived here yesterday on the Niagara, from Australia, has made it his business to see both Lieutenant-Governor H. Randell, Bruce and Mr. J. H. Beatty, past district governor of the Rotary Club, and to talk over with them the possibilities of bringing English boys to Canada under this scheme, and the failures which he has known as the Big Brother Scheme.

The movement is supported by voluntary contribution, and was started by Mr. Richard Linton, of Melbourne, when he was on a trip in the Old Country. One day, as Mr. Linton was going round an English city, he saw a number of boys in a poor condition for the jobs of caddies. Upon his inquiry why they did not go to Australia, there was plenty of employment, he was told that many boys' parents hesitated to send them to a strange country where there would be no one to keep an eye on them or show them the ropes. The result of this was a certain amount of committee work both in Australia and at home, which came to a head in the shape of the Big Brother Scheme.

Fifteen hundred boys, between the ages of fifteen and nineteen, have been sent from England to Australia under this scheme, and the failures have only been 4 per cent up to date. When they arrive at an Australian port they are met by a number of Australians, who take them in hand, give them hints on the customs of the country, see that they go to decent hotels and rooming houses, and generally play the part of big brothers during the boy's first term at a boarding school.

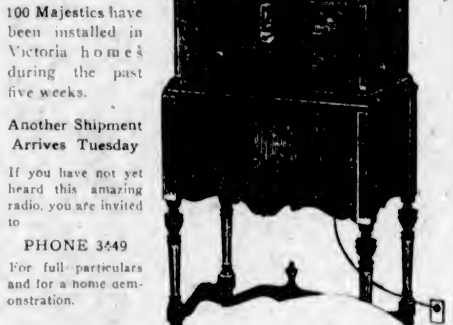

After the selection of any particular lad in England, particulars of him are sent to committees in Australia. These select his "big brother," exercising the greatest care that he should be suitable to the case in question. The scheme is bound by no class distinctions, but embraces every type of boy. Therefore, as far as is possible their big brothers are chosen from the same walk of life, and great deal of intelligent judgment has to be exercised in their selection.

When the scheme was first put on foot, boys were shipped out to Australia at the rate of twenty-five a month. There are now forty-five boys going out every month and

Irish Team Goes Under Two to Nothing—Small Crowd at Game

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, Nov. 10.—England defeated Ireland by two goals to nothing in an amateur international soccer match here today.

Only five thousand witnessed the game. The teams were: Ireland—Coadine, Coleraine, McKinnon, Coleraine, Fulton, Belfast, Vincent, Coleraine, Jones, Armit, Walsen, Portadown, Rafferty, Jarne, Davidson, Ards, Lyness, Newry, Doherty, Portadown, Shaw, Ballymena.

England—Solly, Dulwich, Gregory, Millwall, Gates, London Coleraine, Coleraine, Navy, Chadder, Cornthorpes, Knight, Gausa, Jenkins, Casals, Smith, Stockton, Creek, Corinthians, Macey, Kingston, Hegan, Army.

The Irishmen at the outset rushed the English team off their feet, Jones giving the ball to Doherty, who passed to Shaw, the latter giving Solly a hard shot to handle. Shaw came back a minute later with another shot which Solly cleared.

The Englishmen settled down and at the other end, Gardner had a warm time with shots from Jenkins and Smith. After a term in mid-field, play swung again toward the English end, and Solly three times scored brilliantly. There had been no saving when half time arrived.

After the crosser the Englishmen improved, and after some pretty passing, Creek scored. Ten minutes from the end Creek got through and put two goals ahead. The visitors had no trouble holding their advantage to the end.

there seems no reason why the number should not go on increasing. It was the Prince of Wales who first suggested the scheme in reference to Canada. When the Prince became a patron, he said that his experience of Canada made him think that the Dominion as well as Australia would form a first class field for the enterprise.

McGill Ruggers Capture Intercollegiate Title

Defeat University of Toronto 13 to 7 to Win Championship for First Time Since 1919—Tigers End Season With Victory

PERCIVAL MOLSON MEMORIAL STADIUM, MONTREAL, Nov. 10.—McGill won the senior intercollegiate football title for the first time since 1919 by defeating University of Toronto, 13-7, here today. A record crowd for senior football in Montreal witnessed McGill take the long-coveted honors, 16,000 fans witnessing the struggle.

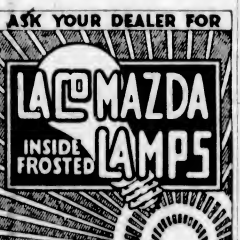

It was an alert machine that swept to victory this afternoon, all twelve men following the ball from start to finish. They did not win without a struggle, however, for the visiting blue team gave a fighting display throughout. The visitors threatened at all times, but the McGill defense was tight in the pinches. The game was in the first minute of the first quarter, when Hallam fumbled McGill's first punt on his five-yard line. McGill obtained possession. Brown then plunged the five yards for a try, which was not converted. That score gave the locals a working lead, and they were never headed, although the blues fought like demons at all times to overcome the handicap of that early and unfortunate reverse.

WILL NOT PLAY FOR TITLE
MONTREAL, Nov. 10.—The Intercollegiate Football Union will not be represented in the Canadian championship playoffs this year. The McGill team, which won the title here today by beating Varsity 13 to 7, will not enter the Dominion series, while at a meeting of the union governors prior to the game it was decided that in the event of McGill winning, the second-place team, Queen's, would not represent the union in the Canadian championship series.

U. LAVIOLETTE WINS CADDIES' CHAMPIONSHIP

Turns in Net '70 to Take Title at Victoria Golf Club by Five Strokes—M. Barbour Second

R. STOKES GIVEN SPECIAL PRIZE

U. Laviolette will reign as monarch of the fairways in the caddies' section at the Victoria Golf Club for the next twelve months. Yesterday morning he captured the annual caddies' tournament over eighteen holes medal play. Besides being champion, the young baggator will have possession of the huge Millbank Cup, emblematic of the championship, for one year, along with a miniature, which he keeps, and a cash prize of twelve dollars.

Laviolette turned in a gross score of 90, and, with his 20 handicap deducted, left a field of forty by five strokes with a net score of 70. Five strokes behind the champion was M. Barbour, who had a gross score of 91, a handicap of 18 and a net score of 75. W. Lund, Jack Hughes and A. Jackson were tied for third place with net cards of 78.

STOKES WINS SPECIAL
R. Stokes, who played scratch, was awarded a special prize for his efforts to capture the trophy. He was tied for low score with the champion, A. Florence and R. Spaven, also scratch players, had net and 104 respectively. The hole prizes went to Jack Hughes and Tom Rogers. All caddies not succeeding in securing prizes were awarded $1 each.

The special prize for the best gross score was a ham, presented by P. Burns & Co. John Virtue, of the Oak Bay Hotel, donated two handsome pins as prizes for the hidden hole competition.

Phil Taylor had charge of the competition and acted as starter and scorer, ably assisted by Hughie Macdonald, the referee. Mrs. Young provided lunch for the youngsters after the tourney.

"The Gentlemen of Indiana" in U.S. Football

Knute Rockne Two Gentlemen From Indiana
PAGE

By AL DEMAREE

Most everybody has read the very interesting book entitled, "The Gentlemen from Indiana." I have forgotten the principal character's name, but I know very well, and so hundreds of thousands of others, the names of Knute Rockne and Pat Page, two present "Gentlemen from Indiana," who have been making football history for a number of years.

The "Sawde" is the John McGraw of football and his Notre Dame eleven always reflect something of his dynamic personality. As a story teller he makes Irvin Cobb and J. Hamilton Lewis turn green with envy. His pet peeve, if he has any, is for his "backs" to reach their tacklers too soon.

Pat Page, the other "gentleman from Indiana," does not as yet have Rockne's background of past success and gridiron glory, but he is coming up fast with his University of Indiana eleven and doesn't have to "play end to end to his public."

The boys desire to express their thanks to the following ladies and gentlemen who so generously contributed to the subscription list: Mr. C. M. Birnie, Mr. and Mrs. Bagley, Messrs. W. J. Bowser, Dr. W. T. Barnett, L. C. Boyd, J. P. Babcock, H. B. Bate, H. J. Crane, J. E. B. Dickson, H. J. Davis, A. C. Flumerfelt, John Galt, R. W. Gibson, A. T. Goward, Ray Green, J. M. Hedley, L. H. Hardie, H. G. S. Heisterman, H. P. Johnson, Alwell D. King, Colonel Lightbody, Fred Leach, J. H. Lee, J. A. Lindsay, A. S. G. Musgrave, Captain Matterson, Justice M. A. Macdonald, J. W. Morris, W. L. McIntosh, J. A. C. Phipps, Mrs. Pearcey, Mrs. Philbrick, Miss Pitts, Mrs. Reid, Miss D. Scott, Miss Sara Spencer, Mrs. Squire, Mrs. Charles E. Wilson, Miss Helen Wilson, Miss Nora Wilson, Miss Marion Wilson.

The returned soldier caddies wish to thank Mrs. Fred Leach for special Armistice Day gifts.

With the Trundlers

By KING PIN

King Pin has been informed that Horace Beer, skipper of the Poodle Dog Cafe Commercial League trundlers, has offered a cup or medal to the player in this league with the highest average during the season. It is indeed gratifying to see local business men taking a personal interest in bowling. The writer feels confident that the players appreciate this act on the part of Mr. Beer.

It has often been said that life is one reverse after the other. King Pin is apt to believe that is just what the Quinnettes of the Fivepin League are thinking today after dropping three games to Harry Buckle and his Dynamites last Monday night.

Where Jimmie Hough, of the Colonist Typos, learnt so much about the art of making good scores in the fivepin game? "Why Lee Fox, of the Times Scribes, who so much speed in his straight ball?"

If Irving Strickland is not developing into one of the best of the younger bowlers playing on the Arcade Alleys?

Who will win the championship of the first half of the schedule of the newly-formed Fivepin League?

Skipper "Welsh" and his Arcades have changed their song from "We know what it means to be lonesome" to that latest of New York hits: "There are three of us together, but at that we're not a crowd." Until last week the Arcades were lone occupants of the top berth in the Fivepin Bowling League, but since that time the Dynamites and Times Compos have camped on the top doorstep and will stay for a week at least.

The race for the championship of the first half of the Fivepin League is developing into quite an interesting affair. With almost half of the fixtures rolled there are three teams tied for top place. Following closely is another club, just one game behind, and then there are three other clubs tied together, while the Colonist Typos are 6, 500.

C.N.R. and Whizbangs bring up the rear in the above order. Surely the three bottom teams have no excuses for being so far down. King Pin would like to see them step out and ere another week rolls by, place themselves in a little better position in the league standing.

Art Manson's 5 to 3 for three games, which was the highest aggregate score of the season, was wiped out last week when the veteran of the alleys, Jimmie Huxtable, toppled 582 pins for three games. Stay with the good work, Mr. Huxtable.

Victoria Baggage maple smashes are setting the pace in the Commercial League with nine wins and no defeats. However, they will meet their strongest opposition tomorrow when they oppose the Poodle Dog

Cafe five, and it would not surprise King Pin to see the Baggage men drop two games.

Someone said that a change is as good as a rest. King Pin is wondering if the change in the name of the Cougars to that of the Westholme Hotel in the City League is going to be for better or worse. As the Cougars they rolled fairly consistently, and after all, what's in a name?

Colonist Night Owls are still occupying first place in the City League, but following closely on the wings of the Owls is James Island and the Westholme Hotel trundlers. Colonist five are still suffering from their early season slump, and out of twelve games rolled have only appeared in the win column twice. This is not their position, as they are capable of putting on good scores, but when the Colonist spill plenty of pins their opponents spill just a few more. Stay with the battle, Colonist, King Pin has visions of your improving your position in the immediate future.

Farrell Does Not Smoke, Yet Boosts Tobacco in "Ad"

Speaking of gold-lined fairways—there are these days? When these professional golfers win an important championship, there's an immediate rush to collect all the world's great golfers. Noticeable of these are the various advertising schemes that have neither rhyme nor reason.

One of the most noteworthy incidents of the kind in the golfing ranks is a remarkable recommendation of a well-known recommendation of the so-called Apollo of the United States fairways, Johnny Farrell.

Farrell, as every links devotee knows, never smoked in his life and probably never will. Yet he blithely lent his name to the boost and in this respect fell far below the fighter, Gene Tunney. Tunney does not smoke, and when approached on a similar advertising hoax, turned it down in no uncertain terms.

"Now, I like Johnny Farrell personally, but stunts of that sort get under my skin," concludes Hughes, the New York writer. "Particularly his masterpiece of advertising, that astonishing tribute to the lunge he wore in his great battle with Bobby Jones."

"Did Farrell really wear this particular brand of undergarments that had so much to do with his victory? And was he paid for doing so before or after the triumph of Olympia?"

Annually there appears the announcement that Farrell has again won the contest for the best dressed golfer, and has received a large sum therefor. Very good. But who puts up this money, and what for?

"Where is the contest held, and who are entrants? Is this really beauty contest held in front of a railroad mill? Or is it behind the closed doors of some advertising office? I think a lot of golfers who count themselves in the Beau Brummage class are somewhat interested in these questions."

GOLF GAINING GROUND AMONG GERMAN SPORTS

Four Years Ago Only Dozen Clubs—Today There Are Forty, and Many More Under Way

WILL HIRE MEN TO LEARN FROM

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Watch out for Germany in golf! The Teuton republic is turning toward golf. The land of Charlemagne, of Frederick the Great, of Von Moltke and Bismarck has awakened to the lure of the links.

The Teuton moves briskly when there is need for action and when the thought prompts him. Things point toward golf as the next field of German activity. We have seen the trend of athletic supremacy first move westward and then eastward again like a shuttle in a spinning machine.

Maurice McLaughlin blazed the way in tennis for a decade in which America's tennis players held all the world's great titles. But the trend of athletic supremacy first move westward and then eastward again like a shuttle in a spinning machine.

It is only comparatively recently that America wrested from Britain the golf championship titles. Right now we hold them. But who knows for how long?

FOURTY CLUBS NOW
Germany is going in for golf. Four years ago there were a dozen golf courses in the republic. Now there are forty, and forty more are on the way. These courses are the efforts of private clubs, groups of men who have fallen for the lure of the links.

Herr Hign Samick, German amateur champion and prime mover in the development of golf in the republic, figuratively smacks his lips in anticipation of what will occur when the German municipalities take up golf in a serious way.

Once the German mind became convinced that there was something in athletics besides a most apparent waste of time and space, they went in strong, particularly for mass athletics and football clubs. In Germany there are more football clubs per square mile than the United States has baseball teams.

Work is now being done on two score golf courses in Germany. The move, from the German point of view, is to learn how the game can be played. This will probably be done through hired experts.

Shows Style

Now that so many girls are allowing their hair to grow again, this style of "bob" is to be seen, in increasing numbers, on Fifth Avenue daily! The lovely New York girl illustrating the new style is Myrtle Miller, of 325 West 30th Street.

She says, "I am certainly delighted that my hair has gotten so much fluffier and more vigorous. And I am not troubled with dandruff any more. At the time I started letting my hair grow, I began caring for it, the way which is all the rage among New York girls now, and I attribute its improvement to this method. All I do is put a little Danderine on my brush each time I dress my hair. It makes my hair easy to arrange and holds it in place. It soothes my scalp and keeps it and my hair so clean, I don't need to shampoo more than twice a month now. All my friends admire the way Danderine makes my hair look so bright and sparkling."

Danderine does more to bring out the natural color, the gleam and lustre of your hair than shampoo or brilliantine. It removes all dirt, grime and oily film from the hair—tones and refreshes the scalp, gets rid of dandruff. All drug stores have the big 35c bottles. A delicately fragrant necessity for the well-groomed girl! (Adv.)

Dead in Victoria, but Comes to Life in New York

A Reminiscence of Olden Days in Victoria

Contributed by Judge Harrison

There may be some old-time Victorians (though I suppose there are now but few), who remember Mr. H. O. Tiedemann who used to live on James Bay, near the Government Buildings of colonial days, which I believe he designed. The present Provincial Government Buildings now occupy the site of the former (colonial) Government Buildings.

Mr. Tiedemann designed the Christ Church Cathedral still used by the Church of England in the Diocese of Columbia (Vancouver Island).

The oldest picture I believe of Victoria, was engraved from a drawing he made, and occasionally one runs across one of those pictures (in colors) with the name of Mr. Tiedemann in the margin.

Mr. Tiedemann and the writer used often to take coffee together in the evening at a restaurant in Victoria. One evening there he remarked: "We won't meet here again for some time, as I am going to New York."

Some time afterwards we met again in Victoria. After the usual mutual inquiries he said: "I had the fright of my life when in New York. On turning the corner of a street there I was astounded to see before me — who had died of the smallpox, and was buried in Victoria. I almost fainted."

He said: "Why, Tiedemann, what's the matter? Don't you know me?" Gaining power of speech, Mr. Tiedemann said: "But, but — you died in Victoria, and was buried there!"

"Oh!" said — Come with me and sit down awhile and I'll tell you all about it."

Mr. Tiedemann accompanied the dead and buried man, now alive again, and when they were seated, chatting together, — said: "You see, it happened this way. As you know, my niece and I lived at Rock Bay. They had a law of imprisonment for debt in this country. Things had gone badly with me. I could not possibly pay my debts. I was a foreigner. I had a dread of being arrested and put in jail, and if put in I didn't know when I would ever get out. The dread of this grew more and more on the minds of my niece and myself. At night time, if we heard a noise, we would shudder. Close by there was a cabin, in which lived an old man—a miner or prospector. We used to invite him to partake of the fare we had. He was ill, and he died. At that time there was an epidemic of smallpox. My niece said to me: 'Now is the chance for you to get away. Let us put this dead body in our premises and I'll report to the authorities that you have died of smallpox. It is difficult for them to get responsible people to bury persons who have died of smallpox. In the meantime you can escape.'"

"This was done and I got away, escaping imprisonment for debt."

Directly after his return from New York to Victoria, going along Government Street, Mr. Tiedemann saw Mr. Lewis coming along. Mr. Lewis had been mayor at the time of the epidemic. The absurdity of what had happened so struck Mr. Tiedemann that as he and Mr.

Lewis were approaching each other he could not help laughing.

Mr. Lewis was a gentleman of a very lively disposition and he took offence at being so greeted, and said:

"What do you find so funny about me that you laugh so?"

Mr. Tiedemann said to him: "You remember —?"

Mr. Lewis replied: "Of course I do."

"Well, I saw him not long ago in New York."

Mr. Lewis replied: "No, you never. He died years ago and was buried in Victoria."

"But he didn't. I saw him not long ago in New York."

"No, You didn't. I buried him, and his death and funeral are recorded in my books."

"Well," said Mr. Tiedemann, "no matter what entry you have in your books, I certainly met him and talked with him in New York."

"No, you didn't," said Mr. Lewis. I buried him, and his niece after he was buried, came to me and said: 'Of course, Mr. Mayor, I know that persons dying in that epidemic were buried by and at the expense of the authorities, but I would like to contribute what I can towards the expense of the funeral. I cannot spare any money, but take this watch and chain, but please don't sell it hurriedly. I will, when I am able, send money in its stead, as I would like, for old associations' sake, to get it back again.' I took the watch and chain and I have it yet, and you can come and see it yourself."

"I don't think the watch and chain are gold," said Mr. Tiedemann.

Mr. Lewis replied: "It's a gold watch and a gold chain."

"Suppose we go to a goldsmith's and have it tested," suggested Mr. Tiedemann.

"All right," said Mr. Lewis, "come on."

They went to Mr. Lewis' office, got the watch and chain, and they had them tested, but neither watch nor chain was gold, but both of them were gold washed.

A PIONEER OF 1858.

EAST SAANICH ROAD

Sir,—With all the talk and money expended on good roads, it is a time something was done to improve the most dangerous road on the Island, and probably in British Columbia, in wet weather. I refer, of course, to the East Saanich Road, the crown of which and the slope of the curves are a monument to the ineptitude of its builders. Yesterday morning there were three cars upside down on it, and there is probably not a wet day that passes that some accident does not happen on account of the crown of the road. If the Saanich municipality cannot afford to do it, the Government should take the matter in hand. A raising and leveling out of the sides with the material that has been used to make the corner approaching Lake Hill safe and the foot of Rithet Hill would pay its cost in time and property very quickly. That there should be a cemetery at the worst point is suggestive.

SUPERFLUITIES SALE

Sir,—The big Rotary Ice Carnival has repeated its success of last year, again demonstrating the remarkable spirit of co-operation on the part of Victorians with the club's efforts towards raising funds for charitable purposes.

May we be privileged to now direct attention to the annual superfluties sale, which is to be held in the showroom of Mr. Thomas Plimley's garage, Yates and Vancouver Streets, on Wednesday, November 21, and request our citizens to contribute articles to be offered at the sale.

At this Thanksgiving season there can be no more sincere way for those who have plenty to give practical demonstration of their feelings than by giving something to help the condition of those not so fortunate.

Our people are asked to give only those things for which they have no further need. There are no many homes where superfluous articles of various kinds cannot be found—clothing, shoes, books, furniture, tools, pictures and ornaments. Anything is acceptable. These articles will go into the hands of those who will put them to further use, and the money realized from the sale will be wisely spent in charities.

Rotarians will give their time and effort in preparing and conducting

Seven in Ten Men Past 40 Need This Special Treatment

Writer Explains Widespread Value of Doctor Southworth's "URATAB" and Invites All to Try Them Without Cost Unless Filled

With middle-age ailments attacking every two-thirds of those past forty, every man who notices such distressing symptoms of impotence, pains in back and down through groin, scanty but frequent and burning urination, "hot-up-the-legs," nervous irritability and lack of force should at once try the amazing value of Dr. Southworth's URATAB.

While new to many, the truly remarkable value of URATAB has been proven by successful use in the private practice of Dr. H. C. Southworth. Because of its safety and its quick action, it has been used by thousands of men who have been suffering from these ailments for years.

"URATAB" is the best thing for bladder weakness and irritation I have ever used. No more backaches, no more pains, no more daily embarras or "hot-up-the-legs." I now sleep soundly and get up in the morning full of pep—thanks to URATAB. This is amazing evidence!

No matter how long you have been troubled or how stubborn your case may seem to be, a ten-day test of Dr. Southworth's URATAB offers comfort and relief—and you can make the test without risk of cost, for any good druggist will supply you on guarantee of money back if not satisfied Try URATAB today! Now ONLY 50 CENTS for a bundle of ten pounds or less

Recently we installed some new equipment—the very latest and most modern—at a cost of thousands of dollars. Now we can wash your clothes with absolutely less wear and tear than any system of home washing—whether you use a machine or do it by hand. And with our new price of only 50c for a bundle of ten pounds or less we can actually do it cheaper than you could in your own home.

For 50c per week, for a bundle of ten pounds or less and 5c for each additional pound, we can relieve you entirely of home washday.

Your clothes will be beautifully washed in three suds of pure mild soap and then rinsed seven times until they are clean through and through—white, sparkling, fresh and inviting. Ten changes of pure water clean your things without wear or tear.

Then the excess moisture is removed by a process that is almost human in its operation. All the water is extracted, leaving the clothes damp—not wet—just ready for ironing. No clothes line to bother you. Your things are returned ready for you to iron—the easiest task of washday.

No need to do any more washing at home. Here is the cleanest, whitest washing you ever saw—and your clothes guaranteed to last longer than home washing—at a price that is cheaper than home washing.

Send a bundle this week. We know you'll want to send every week.

For as little as "Fifty Cents a Week"

you can enjoy a whole year's vacation from washday

Send everything that is washable. No need to do any washing at home. A phone call will bring one of our twenty courteous salesmen to your door ready to serve you.

PRICES AND BREEDS OF GOATS

Sir,—The joke in the Scrub Buck Act, referred to by Mr. Ellison, is not in the act, but in Mr. Ellison's ignorance of the benefit derived from the enforcement of this act. The improvement in the quality of goats due to this act is phenomenal. Surely the most ignorant of us all realize the value of pure blooded, high quality sires in the breeding of livestock.

The stud fee for the services of purebred bucks at the following ranches is as follows: Burton's Goat Ranch, purebred Toggs, $3; Richards' Goat Ranch, purebred Toggs and Saanens, $3 each; Tyler's Goat Ranch, purebred Toggs and Saanens, $3 each. Tyler's Goat Ranch also has a Saanen buck of exceptional quality, the stud service for which the charge is more than $3. This buck sired a great many of the prize winners in the Toggs class. They are all high quality sires of proven merit and their services (with one exception) can be secured for $3.

I am at a loss to understand Mr. Ellison's reasons for his statements unless he is deliberately trying to mislead the public. He is not misleading the goat breeders.

Returning to jokes, it certainly is a joke, or rather I should say disgrace, to go around to some of the goat breeders and see some of the miserable, half-starved, vermin-infested specimens that their owners call goats. Mr. Ellison is quite right when he says they can be raised for $15 or $20. When they are finished with this so-called raising they are only fit for crow bait. I have two kids in my barn now that are as big as some of these so-called mature goats. In speaking of grades, it seems to me Mr. Ellison is confusing grades with scrubs. When goat breeders speak of grades they have in mind animals with one or more generations of pure breeding behind them. A scrub, as we understand it, is an animal of unknown ancestry, and they look like it, too.

With reference to Mr. Ellison's statement, let us have best breed stock, but let it be a hobby of the rich industrialist. To that I say (most emphatically) no. The best herds of goats at this end of the Island have been raised and bred by working people without any assistance from any rich industrialist. We have done the pioneer work and we are quite capable of carrying on. The rich industrialist could do no better, in fact I know of one rich industrialist that is not doing nearly so well.

Now, Mr. Editor, I have no desire to waste any more space, so I would say in conclusion to goat breeders, raise only the best, raise them right and let them reach maturity before breeding. We have then something worth while. If we cannot do that then for heaven's sake let us leave it to those that raise them right; not drag up some of the pitiful specimens that go around on four legs, calling themselves goats, and that in spite of a paternal government, the Scrub Buck Act, and years of educational propaganda.

INDUSTRIAL ADVANCEMENT

Sir,—The industrial advancement of Victoria during the past couple of years is due, nearly entirely, to the energy and effort of the industrial committees of the 1925 and 1926 City Councils.

In 1925 the worsted mill project was first broached and the industrial committee of that year brought the matter to a point where the final arrangements could be practically completed in 1926.

The grain elevator was a product of the 1926 City Council. The hard work of initial investigation was accomplished by the city's industrial committee.

During 1925 and 1926 I was an alderman; also I was a member of the industrial committee during both years. That committee is composed of three aldermen.

INVESTING IN MINING STOCKS

Sir,—The local evening paper has lately worked itself up to a pitch of righteous indignation because of an alleged rumor that various members of the Provincial Legislature have been speculating in certain mining stocks. The inference is, of course, that only wicked Conservative members would indulge in that reprehensible pastime.

Well, what of it? There is no law that one is aware of which prohibits legislative members, either Liberal or Conservative, from exercising their natural prerogatives in matters of private investment, whether speculative or otherwise. And surely legislative members, by virtue of their position, may be assumed to have sufficient intelligence to determine for themselves what form those investments or speculations should take.

Should they need protection from the operations of wildcat promoters they are in the particularly happy position of being able to pass such laws as would in future protect themselves, and incidentally others, from future depredations of a similar character.

The shorn and unshorn lambs, comprising the general speculative public, are not, however, in that peculiarly happy position, and must content themselves in awaiting a further golden opportunity of buying at a dollar today and selling at thirty cents tomorrow. And history will strangely repeat itself should that opportunity not be presented to them again at some date in the not too distant future.

TWO THEMES TO OCCUPY ATTENTION

Dr. Sipprell Will Preach on "Present Outlook for World Peace" at Metropolitan United Church

DR. BOREHAM TO BE VISITOR

Special Reasons for Thanksgiving Will Be Presented at Evening Service

Special services will mark Sunday in Metropolitan United Church. The morning service at 11 o'clock will feature the Armistice anniversary. The Armistice Memorial Committee of Canada has arranged a memorial service for the occasion, which will be followed at Metropolitan as far as possible. The service will open promptly at 11 o'clock, when all doors will be closed and silence of two minutes observed. The whole intent of the service will be that of worship and thanksgiving for what others have done for us. Dr. Sipprell, the pastor, will deliver an address on "The present outlook for world peace."

The evening service will be a Thanksgiving Day service, and the address to be delivered by the pastor will present some unusual reasons for thanksgiving. Appropriate music will be rendered at both services.

On Tuesday at 3 o'clock Dr. Boreham, of Australia, will preach in Metropolitan Church on the subject "God's Carpenters," and he will lecture in the same place at 8 o'clock on the subject of "Crumbing Stones." An offering will be received at both services.

St. Matthew's, Langford
Service today in St. Matthew's Church, Langford, will be held at 7 p.m.

"Hymn of Praise" Set for Nov. 25 At First Church

ON Sunday afternoon, November 25, the augmented choir of First United Church, under the leadership of Mr. W. C. Pye, will render Mendelssohn's "Hymn of Praise." This choir, which is well known for its excellent work in the past, will be assisted by several popular soloists and by an orchestra of approximately thirty pieces.

POPPY WREATH TO BE PRESENTED AT JAMES BAY TODAY

Armistice Day will be fittingly recognized at James Bay United Church especially at this morning's service, when the national programme with slight modifications will be used. The church will be decorated in harmony with the thought of the day, and a special feature will be the presentation of a poppy wreath by Mrs. H. W. Davies, who gave sons in the war. The senior choir will officiate at both services, their contributions being "Incline Thine Ear" (Hummel) and "The Shepherd's Care" (Ira B. Wilson). Mrs. Norman Baker will sing "In Flanders Fields" at the morning service. The minister will preach at both services. The worshippers at the morning services are asked to be in their places not later than five minutes to 11 o'clock, when the two minutes' silence will be observed at 11 o'clock.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE TOPIC TODAY: "ADAM AND FALLEN MAN"

All churches and societies of Christ, Scientist, branches of the Mother Church, the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass., will have the subject of "Adam and Fallen Man," for their lesson-sermon Sunday, with the following Golden Text from Romans xi, 26: "All Israel shall be saved; as it is written, 'Shall come out of Sion, the Deliverer, and shall turn away ungodliness from Jacob.' Sunday morning services at First Church of Christ, Scientist, Victoria, are held at 11 o'clock. Evening services are at 7:30 o'clock. Wednesday evening services, which include testimonies of healing, are held at 8 o'clock. A free reading room for the public is maintained in the Sayward Building.

MEMORIES AND HOPES' THEME

Significance of November Eleventh Will Be Presented by Dr. Wilson at First United

MUSICAL SERVICE IN THE EVENING

First United will celebrate Armistice Day by special services. The morning service will commence five minutes before 11 o'clock sharp, so that in common with other churches throughout the Dominion and in harmony with the recommendations of the Dominion committee on Armistice services, the period of two minutes' silence may be observed, following 11 o'clock precisely. Dr. Wilson will preach, having for his subject, "November Eleventh—Day of Imperishable Memories and Immortal Hopes." The choir will render special music. In the evening the service will take on the character of thanksgiving and praise. A large choir will render special music in keeping with the season of the year, and the people will take part in familiar thanksgiving hymns and songs. There will be no address at this service, the message coming through the medium of song.

WELL KNOWN HERE

Late Dr. Heertz Was Missionary Head in Methodist Church for Forty-Five Years

Rev. W. H. Heertz, whose death in Amherst, Nova Scotia, was announced in The Colonist, visited his cousin, Rev. S. E. Howard, of this city, two years ago, and preached in several of the United churches, and also gave an address to the Ministerial Association. Dr. Heertz was chairman of the Foreign Mission Board of the Methodist Church for forty-five years, holding that responsible office up to a year ago, when he resigned at the age of eighty-five years.

SACRIFICE IS ST. ANDREW'S SUBJECT

"Sacrifice and Waste" and "Sacrifices of Thanksgiving" by Rev. H. P. Luttrell Today

This morning the service at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, corner of Douglas and Broughton Streets, will commence at 10:45 o'clock, instead of 11 o'clock, the usual hour, to enable the congregation to observe the two minute silence as part of the service. The minister, Rev. H. P. Luttrell, B.A., will speak on "Sacrifice and Waste," based on the incident in Matthew xxvi, of Mary and her alabaster box of precious ointment. In the evening the service will be of a thanksgiving character, with appropriate hymns and music and the sermon on "The Sacrifices of Thanksgiving." After the evening service, the Young People's Society will hold their usual hour of sacred song in the lecture room.

DEAN OF COLUMBIA TO PREACH AT ARMISTICE DAY SERVICES

"American Celebrities" Is Lecture by Mr. Rufus B. Wilson, of Seattle, November 19

The Dean of Columbia will preach at the morning and evening services in Christ Church Cathedral today. Pewholders are asked to be in their seats before 11 o'clock, as the two minutes' silence will be observed. There will be celebrations of Holy Communion at 8 and 9:30 o'clock. The Dean's tutorial class will meet on Thursday, November 15, for those who were unable to be present on Wednesday, November 7.

A public lecture will be given in the Memorial Hall at 8 o'clock on Monday, November 19, by Mr. Rufus B. Wilson, of Seattle, on "American Celebrities." Mr. Wilson is president of the Western Metals Corporation, and lives in Seattle. He has had a varied experience as author, publisher, expert, journalist, magazine writer and newspaper syndicate manager. The lecture will be given under the auspices of the Men's Parish Guild, and the proceeds will be devoted to their funds. Tickets may be obtained at the Memorial Hall, the Deanery, and from members of the guild.

Anglican and Catholic Services at Metchison

Today being Armistice Day, divine service will be held in St. Mary's Church, Metchison, at 3:15 o'clock. In the Roman Catholic Church, mass will be said at 10:45 o'clock with a choir in attendance.

The Supreme Sacrifice

Words by JOHN S. ARKWRIGHT

O valiant Hearts, to your glory came Through dust of conflict and through battle-flame; Tranquil you lie, your knightly virtue proved, Your memory hallowed in the Land you loved.

Proudly you gathered, rank on rank to war, As who had heard God's message from afar; All you had hoped for, all you had, you gave To save mankind—yourselves you scorned to save.

Splendid you passed, the great surrender made, Into the light that nevermore shall fade; Deep your contentment in that blessed abode, Who wait the last clear trumpet-call of God.

Long years ago, as earth lay dark and still, Rose a loud cry upon a lonely hill, While in the frailty of our human clay Christ, our Redeemer, passed the self-same way.

Still stands His Cross from that dread hour to this Like some bright star above the dark abyss; Still, through the veil, the Victor's pitying eyes Look down to bless our lesser Calvaries.

These were His servants, in His steps they trod Following through death the martyr's Son of God, Victor He rose; victorious too shall rise They who have drunk His Cup of Sacrifice.

O risen Lord, O Shepherd of our Dead, Whose Cross has bought them and whose Staff has led, In glorious hope their proud and sorrowing Land Commits her Children to Thy gracious hand.

Amen.

Churches Will Pause for Two Minutes Of Silence at Beginning of Service

THE close juxtaposition of Thanksgiving Day and Armistice Day is reflected in the services that are being held in the city churches today. In many cases the ideas and spirit of both the anniversaries are being expressed in both sermon and service of worship. When this has been arranged the thought of Armistice Day has been brought into the morning service, due, no doubt, to the pause for silence at the beginning of the hour. In this case Thanksgiving is prominent in the evening. A review of the notices will show that when the evening service is largely musical, the two streams of feeling are intermingled in the programme.

Relating to the obligations of them, "When Wilt Thou Save the People?"

CHURCH OF OUR LORD
Morning Prayer—Special, Psalm xli; Te Deum (Newby); Jubilate (G. H. Lous); anthem, "Praise the Lord, O Ye Nations" (Earl of Wilton).

Evening Prayer—Special, Psalms xx and xxiv; Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis (Bunnell); In P; anthem, "Sing to the Lord of Harvest" (Mauder); F. G. Barchman, organist and choirmaster.

EMMANUEL BAPTIST
Morning service—Special, "What Are These?" (Stainer); "Is It Wheat Harvest Today?" (Maker). Evening service—Anthem, "Stand Up and Bless the Lord Our God" (Coss); "I Will Feed My Flock" (Bridge); "Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem" (Mauder). These items will be interspersed with well-known harvest hymns sung by congregation and choir. Choir leader, Mr. Fred Parfitt; organist, Miss Sowerbut.

ST. MARK'S
The service at St. Mark's will commence at two minutes to eleven o'clock, and immediately after the two minutes' silence prayers will be said for all those who made the supreme sacrifice in the Great War. After the prayers the usual order of service will follow.

There will be special hymns, anthems, solos and orchestral selections for the occasion. Mrs. O. L. Jull will sing "Flanders Field" at both services, and Mr. Bert Lashm will play the Last Post and Reveille during the evening service. The choir will sing the anthem, "What Are These?" and the orchestra will assist in the evening and play selections. All returned men in the district are cordially invited.

OAK BAY UNITED
Morning—Solo, "There Is No Death" (O'Hara); Mrs. Rita Armstrong; McNeil; anthem, "What Are These?" (Stainer). Evening—Anthem, "Ye Shall Dwell in the Land" (Stainer); solo by Mr. W. J. Russell; anthem, "Glorious Day" (Roberts); solo by Mr. W. J. Russell; choirmaster, Mr. W. H. Russell.

ST. LUKE'S, CEDAR HILL
At 11 o'clock the two minutes' silence will be observed, followed by a brief service of intercession. "The Hymn of Peace" (Callcott) will be sung by the choir, also suitable hymns, including "Give Peace to Our Time, O Lord" (Callcott), soloist, Mrs. William Grant.

FAIRFIELD UNITED Morning—Bartlett solo, "In Flanders Fields" (Deane Wells); Mr. P. E. Rowley; anthem, "Give Peace to Our Time, O Lord" (Callcott), soloist, Mrs. William Grant.

VICTORIA WEST UNITED
Mr. J. T. Fitch, P.R.C.O., will render special organ music at opening and close of both services, including "O Lovely Peace" (Handel); "These Are They" (Handel); "Cast Thy Burden" (Mendelssohn); "O for the Wings" (Mendelssohn); "Rejoice Greatly" (Handel); "Call North Thy Power" (Handel); "The Heavens Are Telling" (Haydn). The morning anthem, "Praise and Thanksgiving"; soloist, Miss Mary Armitage. The anthem for the evening service will be "Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem" (Mr. L. A. Young will render a cornet solo, "The Dream of Paradise").

ST. BARNABAS
The congregation is requested to be seated for the morning service at five minutes to eleven so that the two minutes' silence can be observed in reverence and without disturbance. The service will be followed by the hymn, "O Valiant Hearts," and then the service for Holy Communion to the setting of Woodward in E flat. All other hymns and music will be appropriate to the day. C. H. Simpson, organist and choirmaster.

Divine service will be conducted today at the Tillamook Road Presbyterian Church, the Gorge, at 11 o'clock, and at the Erskine Presbyterian Church, corner of Bartlett and Lurline Roads, at 7 o'clock. Rev. Dr. Douglas, Superintendent of Missions, New Westminster, will conduct the services.

CHURCH AND PEACE
Morning Topic at Emmanuel Baptist—Evening Is "God's Goodness"
The Thanksgiving-Armistice season will be fittingly observed at both services today in Emmanuel Baptist Church. Rev. Henry Knox, who served overseas, will be in charge. The morning hour of worship will begin promptly at 10:55 o'clock, so as to insure silence at eleven o'clock, immediately following the two minutes of quietness, the choir will sing the anthem, "What Are These?" (Stainer). The sermon will be on the subject, "The Church and Peace-Time Objectives." The evening service will be chiefly choral. There will be a brief message on the subject, "God's Goodness," and the church will be specially decorated for the day.

THEME AT KNOX TO BE ARMISTICE
Armistice services will be held today at Knox Presbyterian Church, corner of Gladstone and Stanley Avenues, at 11 and 7:30 o'clock. The morning's subject will be "Lay Down Your Arms" (Psalm xxiv, 14). At the evening service the pastor, Rev. T. Hadden Davies, M.A., will discuss "The Price of Peace" (Ephesians ii, 14-15). Sunday school at 9:45 o'clock.

BISHOP SCHOFIELD SPEAKS AT OAK BAY

The services at St. Mary's, Oak Bay, for today are: Celebration of Holy Communion at 8 o'clock; Matins and sermon at 11, the preacher being the Lord Bishop of the diocese. Evening and sermon at 7 o'clock. In order that the two minutes' silence may be observed on Armistice Day, the congregation are asked to be in their pews not later than 10:55 o'clock. The choir and clergy will enter the church at two minutes to eleven.

Rev. C. Cropper in Armistice Service At Patricia Bay

At Patricia Bay a special Armistice Day service will be held today at 11 o'clock. The special preacher will be Rev. C. H. E. Cropper. The congregation is asked to come a little earlier than usual so that the service can begin with the two minutes' silence at 11 o'clock without any interruption from late comers.

Honor Roll to Be Unveiled at Fairfield United

There will be special Armistice and Thanksgiving Day services today at Fairfield United. The pastor's subject this morning is "Remembering our Heroes." A new honor roll prepared by the church committee will be placed in the church at this service. To more fully observe the period of silent prayer, the congregation is requested to meet five minutes earlier than usual. War veterans of the church and district are cordially invited to attend this service. In the evening the pastor will take for his subject "The Sacrifice of Thanksgiving."

CHORAL SERVICE AT FIRST BAPTIST

"The Conservation of Life" Is Topic of Rev. J. Strachan at Morning Service

The atmosphere of Armistice Day and of Thanksgiving Day will pervade the services of the First Baptist Church today. The morning service will commence at 10:55 o'clock, in order that all may be in their places to join in the period of silence. The minister will have for his subject "The Conservation of Life." Thanksgiving hymns will be sung, and Mr. George Guy will sing Maunders' "O Thou, Whose Constancy Mercies." The church school will meet as usual at 12 o'clock. In the evening the service will be at 7:30 o'clock. There will be no sermon. The choir, assisted by well-known local artists, will present a programme of thanksgiving music. The church will be decorated in keeping with the day.

On Monday, at 11 o'clock, the congregation will join in the union service of thanksgiving in the First United Church. On Tuesday, a brother Baptist from Australia, the Rev. F. W. Boreham, who is on a tour, will address two meetings under the auspices of the Ministerial Association, in the Metropolitan Church. The afternoon meeting is at 3 o'clock and the evening meeting at 8 o'clock. The church and congregation will meet for supper at 8:15 o'clock on Wednesday. Periods for prayer and business will follow.

DO THE DEAD LIVE? CAN THEY RETURN?

Edith Allen, of Calgary Temple of Spiritual Light, to Speak in Chamber of Commerce

Edith Allen, pastor of the Temple of Spiritual Light, Calgary, Alberta, will lecture at 8 o'clock this evening in the auditorium of the Chamber of Commerce. This speaker is well known throughout the West and the United States for her lecture work. Descriptions will also be given. The subject to be dealt with is entitled: "Do the Dead Live and Can They Return?" The temple in Calgary has accommodated for 500 people, and also possesses a sixteen-voice choir. The people flock each Sunday to hear the powerful message given by this speaker.

Sidney United

Armistice service will be held in the Sidney United Church at 7:30 o'clock this evening. Immediately after the singing of the Doxology the two minutes' silence will be observed in tribute to those who made the supreme sacrifice. From this on the service will be one of commemoration and follow the order set forth in the Armistice Ceremonial Service. Special music will be rendered, both vocal and instrumental; the church will be appropriately decorated for the occasion, and the pastor will address the congregation from the topic "In Memoriam." The public and especially returned men and their friends are cordially invited to join in these solemn, helpful and commemorative services.

BOTH OF TODAY'S THEMES INCLUDED AT VICTORIA WEST

Special Thanksgiving and Armistice services will be held in Victoria West United Church today at 11 and 7:30 o'clock. Members and friends of the church are requested to be assembled in the church a few minutes before 11 o'clock at the morning service so that the two minutes' silence may be reverently observed. Mr. J. T. Filcroft will render special music at both services, and Rev. H. J. Armitage will deliver appropriate messages. The members and friends of this church are earnestly requested to gather for these services in gratitude to Almighty God and in the spirit of true thanksgiving.

To Honor God Is British Tradition

The observance of Thanksgiving Day carries forward the inherited attitude of the British people. The Harvest Festival around the first of October is one of the great days of the church year in the Church of England and is also universally observed by the Free Churches of the Old Land. The institution of Thanksgiving Day in the United States, which was the more immediate suggestion of the day in Canada, goes back through the history of the Republic to the preceding period of the British Colony on the Atlantic Coast. The story of the first Thanksgiving Day has made a deep impression on all readers of history. After the first year, a year of terrible hardship during the dreary Winter months of which they had laid away half of their little company, the pioneers assembled to acknowledge God. It was a day of confession of dependence upon God and of thanksgiving to Him. These men were British, in blood and in faith. It is the unbroken tradition of the British people to corporately honor God. Canada's recognition at this time of God in her national life is in line with the British tradition.

Christendom the World Over

Elated by the success of the campaign to raise the McMaster College endowment on the eve of the removal of this Baptist institution to Hamilton, and pleased by the gathering of world-wide Baptists last Summer in Toronto, the Convention of Ontario and Quebec had a successful meeting in Hamilton last month. Home missionaries are 136 in number; there are twenty-five churches and missions among new Canadians, and there are 126 missionaries in India and Bolivia. To the foreign work Canadian Baptists contribute $225,000 a year. The total gift per member for all purposes is $27. On account of their adherence to the newly-organized Regular Baptist Convention, twelve churches were dropped from the roll. Rev. R. Mackay, of Sarnia, was elected president.

AMERICAN EPISCOPAL CHURCH
The thirteen years' work on the Prayer Book was completed at the Protestant Episcopal Convention held last month in Washington, D.C. Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan, whose father defrayed the cost of the book now in use, will pay the full cost of its successor. The thirty-nine articles were retained through the influence of the laity. A Fourth of July service was introduced, also a prayer for the family of nations, and the prayer for all who travel by land and water was augmented by the word "air." A proposal to insert a prayer for the departed, "to grant them continual growth in Thy love and service," was endorsed.

The publication of a popular edition of the New Testament to be issued in France this month is hailed as a memorable event by the Protestant Bible Society. "For the first time since the sixteenth century," says one journal, "one of our leading publishers has agreed to become responsible for general distribution of a work which has been hitherto scarcely known outside of Protestant circles. Shortly every bookseller will stock a New Testament."

Women sat for the first time as delegates. At an impressive service at which 3,000 women took communion and many thousands more at the altar outdoors, the women's thankoffering was presented, totaling $1,101,400. The Convention will seek co-operation with other communions in studying the question of Christian morality. The Convention went on record, at the suggestion of Bishop Brent, of being ready for a second Conference of Faith and Order to follow up that of Lausanne last year. Large debts were wiped off and fresh million-dollar enterprises were undertaken. The Convention gave a sympathetic hearing to the report of a committee on faith and healing. Every co-operation should be made, it was reported, with medical science, but healing by faith should be brought back into the church's life.

POPE'S ENCYCLICAL
Pope Pius XI has issued an encyclical upon "the means of bringing back the Eastern peoples to the Church." This has reference not to the peoples of the Asiatic East but of the Near East, that are so largely associated with the Eastern Orthodox Churches and also the Mohammedans. For the training of priests specially qualified to bring these peoples to the faith, an institute has been established in Rome under the care of the Society of Jesus. Reviewing the work that had been done in presenting the gospel to the Easterns, His Holiness speaks of the separation between East and West into the two sees of Constantinople and Rome, respectively, as a time when "so great a portion of our Lord's flock was snatched away by a lamentable separation from the Roman Pontiff, the supreme divinely-appointed shepherd," and asks the faithful to pray that "day may shine more quickly on which we shall not only welcome into our pristine union with the Roman Church a few people of the Greek, Slavic, Rumanian and other Eastern nations, but the majority of our children who are still separated." It may be noted that the movement towards unity by the Eastern Orthodox Churches is rather toward the Church of England. The retiring archbishop of Canterbury arranged for mutual recognition of ordination with several of the churches.

OLD COUNTRY CHURCH NEWS
No figure comparable to that of George H. Morrison, of Wellington Church, Glasgow, has been removed from the religious life of Scotland since the death of his near neighbor, Dr. James Denney, and the next of such eminence looking backwards would be that of Dr. Alexander Whyte. This is the estimate of The British Weekly regarding the late Moderator of the United Free Church, who gave twenty-five successful years to his congregation in Glasgow and whose sermons, such as "The Unlighted Luster," have had as wide a reading in their day as perhaps P. W. Robertson in his.

Of Dr. James Black, of Old St. George's, Edinburgh, who preached in Vancouver last Summer, The Christian World states that he is the students' favorite preacher in that city, as was Dr. Kelman in earlier days and Henry Drummond when, earlier still, he was thrilling the city that flocked to the Operetta House. The first woman minister in Scotland of the national churches has been appointed to the pastorate of Partick Congregational Church, a Miss Vera Findlay, a brilliant student of Edinburgh College. The first wedding in England according to the rites of the Sun community has taken place in Brighton. Suffism is a combination of six religions and can be traced back to A.D. 815. RECTOR TO TALK ON ARMISTICE

Music and Sermon at St. John's Are Appropriate to the Day—Rev. F. A. P. Chadwick Preaches

FINISHES "PILGRIM'S PROGRESS" TONIGHT

Armistice Day will be observed at St. John's Church with appropriate services. The members of the congregation are asked to be in their places at 10:55 o'clock in order that two minutes' silence may be properly kept, as the choir will enter the church at that hour. The rector, Rev. F. A. P. Chadwick, will give the Armistice address at this service. There will be Holy Communion at St. John's at 8 o'clock, Morning Prayer at 10:55, and Evensong at 7:30 o'clock.

Mr. G. J. Burnett will give a short organ recital before the evening service, commencing at 7:10 o'clock. The preacher will be the rector, who will give the concluding sermon on John Bunyan's "Pilgrim's Progress," dealing with the closing scenes of his great epic of the human soul.

Thanksgiving and Armistice Service Held Tomorrow

The annual thanksgiving and Armistice service will be held in the First United Church on Monday morning at 11 o'clock. Rev. Dr. Simpson, president of the Ministerial Association, will preside, and Rev. T. H. Davies, M.A., will preach the sermon. Rev. Hugh Nixon will lead in prayer and Rev. F. W. McKinnon will read the Scriptures. The choir of the church will provide the music. All are invited to this most important and impressive service.

Noted Australian Lecturer Will Be Here Tuesday, 13

Dr. F. W. Boreham, the noted Australian preacher, lecturer and writer, will preach in the Metropolitan United Church, on Tuesday afternoon next at 3 o'clock, on "God's Carpenters," and in the evening at 8 o'clock will deliver a popular lecture, entitled "Crumbing Stones." This will very likely be the only opportunity that many will have of hearing this noted divine, and it is hoped there will be large audiences at both services. Dr. Boreham comes to the city under the auspices of the Victoria Ministerial Association. An offering will be received at each service.

PADRE TO PREACH

Army and Navy Veterans to Parade at St. Alban's Tonight—Morning Service, Rev. E. W. P. Carter
The morning service at St. Alban's today will be conducted by Rev. E. W. P. Carter, of the Cathedral staff. The congregation is asked to be seated not later than 10:55 o'clock, so that the silence may be observed with due solemnity at 11 o'clock. An invitation for this service is extended to the Oaklands Guides and Scouts. The minister will take the evening service, when members of Victoria Unit, No. 12, Army and Navy Veterans in Canada, of which Mr. Leighton is chaplain, will be present.

Unity Centre

This morning at the Unity Centre, 600 Campbell Building, Mr. Pratt will speak on the lessons to be learned from Armistice Day and all it has meant to the individual, to the nation and to the world. In the evening at 7:30 Mrs. Gordon Grant will hold a Thanksgiving Service of rejoicing. The love offering will be a thanksgiving offering for the blessings of the past year as God hath prospered us.

On Thursday evening, November 15, at 8 p.m., there will be a Thanksgiving Festival with an interesting programme. Refreshments will be served. All Unity students and readers are invited to attend any or all of these services.

BELGIAN WAR AREA, ADJUTANT'S TOPIC

Salvation Army to Hold Thanksgiving Service Monday Evening—Lecture This Afternoon

Adjutant and Mrs. Merrett will lead the meetings today at the Salvation Army Citadel, Broad Street, which will commence at the usual hours. The two minutes' silence will be observed at the 11 o'clock holiness meeting, and at the afternoon service the Adjutant will give an address on "A Visit to the War Area of Belgium," including a description of several Canadian cemeteries and memorials he saw there. A salvation meeting will be held in the evening, when other city officers will assist.

Tomorrow night at 8 o'clock a Thanksgiving meeting will be held in the Citadel. All of these meetings are public, and both visitors to the city and residents are cordially invited to attend. Colonel Knott, formerly chief secretary for Western Canada, and now holding the same position in New Zealand, passed through on the Niagara, en route to the Army international headquarters, London, England. He visited Victoria on several occasions when on the Winnipeg headquarters staff.

TO USE ARMISTICE CEREMONIAL ORDER AT CENTENNIAL

Centennial United Church, George Road, will hold special services today in keeping with the thought and spirit of Armistice Day. The special "Armistice Ceremonial Service" will be closely followed. The pastor will be in charge and give the address. The morning service will commence at 10:30 o'clock, in order that all will be in readiness for the two minutes' silence at eleven. The evening subject will be the popular service for thanksgiving, with the pastor giving the address.

Theosophical Society Not to Meet Monday

Owing to the holiday on Monday, no meeting of the Victoria Independent Theosophical Society will be held. On the following Monday the subject of God and Prayer will be continued.

OFFERING IS TO BE MADE

Canadian Presbyterians Will Give Gifts for Missions Today—Banner Year Probable

MANY STATIONS ARE MAINTAINED

The Presbyterian churches of the city, and throughout the whole of Canada are making a special thank-offering today in aid of the missionary and benevolent work of the church at home and abroad. Mr. Thomas Humphries, clerk of the Presbytery of Victoria, who has been speaking in different parts of the Province on behalf of the budget, reports keen interest is being manifested in the several congregations in which he has spoken. He is of the opinion that this will be a banner year in the givings of the Presbyterians of Canada. He pointed out that, while there are 1,261 preaching places in connection with the Presbyterian Church in Canada, 639 of these are under the oversight of the Board of Missions. Never has the Presbyterian Church in Canada had a greater home mission task than now. Mr. Humphries claims it to be the highest form of patriotism to provide gospel service not alone for our own kith and kin, but also for the non-English speaking people that have come to our shores. In this connection it was stated that the Presbyterian Church has always taken a leading part in providing gospel services wherever a group of people could be brought together. Some one has well said the history of Western Canada can never be separated from the history of the Presbyterian Church. In addition to the great home mission field, work is carried on in British Guiana, India, Formosa, China and Japan.

UNITED CHURCH TREASURER HERE

Great Need Felt for Home Missionary Work in Western Canada.
Rev. Dr. R. Laird Shows

That a new nationalism is arising in Canada which is reaching out to international relations was stated by Rev. Dr. Robert Laird, of Toronto, the treasurer of the United Church of Canada, in an address before a supper gathering Friday evening in Metropolitan schoolroom, Canada's place at Geneva, Dr. Laird went on to say, would be justified, as she was motivated by Christian principles.

The needs of home missionary operations was graphically portrayed by the speaker. In one district in northern Saskatchewan 10,000 out of 13,000 children were under no religious instruction whatever. Given support, the United Church could place 150 ordained ministers in needy districts in the Western Province. This church has 4,368 home mission preaching appointments, and gave services in twenty-five different languages.

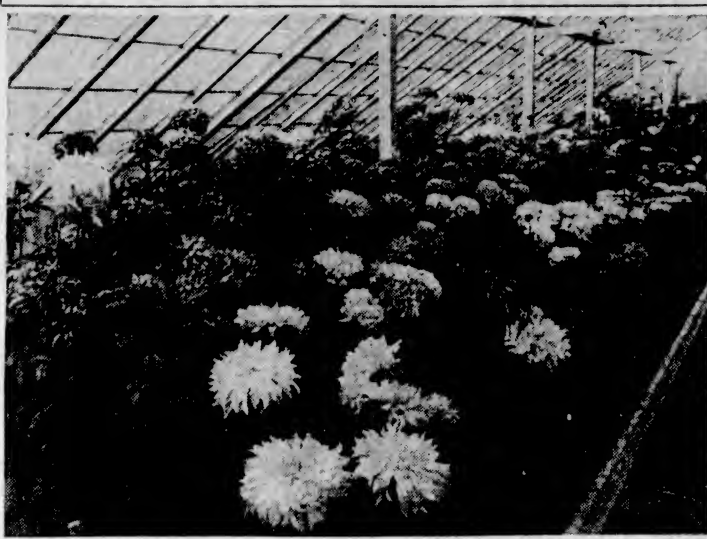

In the last two years 375 aid-receiving fields in 1,000 communities had reached self-support, and 286 new fields had been taken on. One million Canadian children and young people are under the care of the United Church.

Rev. Hugh Nixon, who presided, urged the full contribution of $28,000 allocated to Victoria Presbytery for the Missionary and Maintenance Fund.

Galaxy of Bloom at Empress Today

A chrysanthemum tea will be held this afternoon at which over fifty varieties will be shown.

Chrysanthemums to Be On Exhibition Today

Over Fifty Varieties of Handsome Hothouse Blooms to Be Shown During Tea-Hour at Empress This Afternoon

The shaggy, fantastic beauty of the chrysanthemum is to have its hour today in Victoria with a special celebration at the Empress Hotel, which will take the form of a "chrysanthemum tea." The idea is a happy one; for there are few Victorians addicted to gardening or fond of flowers with whom this very ornamental and long-seasoned bloom is not popular.

For the occasion the whole contents of the two big chrysanthemum houses at the Empress have been removed to the palm-room and lounge of the hotel, where they make a magnificent display banded in the fountain, flanking the pillars, or arranged in formal glory about the charmingly redecorated foyer.

Some fifty varieties will be shown, the larger types, for the most part, in the palm-room "pond," the free-blooming single types elsewhere. Mr. Saunders, the head gardener, has been nursing his blooms along for weeks in order to have the finest display possible. The accompanying picture of the main bed at the chrysanthemum house gives an idea of the lavish exhibition which is in store for this afternoon's visitors at the Empress.

SOME RARE VARIETIES

Among the rarer varieties which he has brought to perfection for the occasion are some new incurve Japanese varieties, varieties which are a cross between the drooping petalled Japanese and the straight incurve types which are represented at their best in the round pompon forms. Among these new varieties are the "Corporal J. Fred Piper," the bronze with gold reverse, "Serge Young," the very tall and stately bronze-yellow "Mrs. J. L. Wieg," which in this instance has attained a height of 4 feet 3 1/2 inches; "Miss Gladys Durkin," a pure Japanese variety, of delicious pinky-white color, another enormous Japanese, the bronze "Majestic," new to Victoria last year, the Japanese incurve, "Miss Emily Morrison," which is a pinky-white shading to mauve, and the salmon pink, with gold reverse, "Miss Millie Rogers."

Most of these newer varieties came from the "Dominion Experimental Farm" at Ottawa, being specially selected for Mr. Saunders by the Dominion botanist, Mr. H. T. Gussow.

There are, however, some others which Empress guests will certainly notice: the jaunty-blooming, sturdy "Admiral Beatty," a mauve and cream bloom set like a hat on one side; the incurve "J. R. Booth," the canary-yellow Japanese "James Fraser," the lilac-mauve "Old Coronation," "Mrs. Sidney Dove," a mauve-pink with silver reverse, the bronze "J. R. Booth," the scarlet with gold reverse, "Private Gresham," the magenta "Gladys Wooderson," the "Pocket" varieties named after the great Australian grower, including the dusty-pink "Yellow Pocket" and the Japanese shell-pink "Louis Pocket"; the two straight incurve types, "White Turner" and "Pink Turner."

There are many beautiful single and pompon types also: "Mona Star," a single pink with orange centre; the deep gold "Source d'Or"; the pure ivory white "Vale"; "Thora," a lavender single with cream centre; the yellow single, "Attraction"; "Mrs. Anderson," red with a gold centre; the handsome "Lilac Cap," a small double variety of the reflex type; the pompon "Rose Charm"; the "Pink Dot," another tiny pompon; "Aile," a pale lavender single; the gay "Market Red," a scarlet with gold reverse, and many others.

The hardy chrysanthemum is one of the most popular flowers in cultivation, as one need only explore Victoria's Autumn gardens to discover. In places not so climatically favored, it is no less popular as a hothouse bloom. In either form it is one of the most useful of all flowers for decorative purposes, for, while it vies in popularity with the rose, it can be grown where the rose will not flourish.

INTERESTING HISTORY

The history of the chrysanthemum in Europe is interesting. In China and Japan it has been known for centuries, but its introduction to France and England is of comparatively recent date, for although as long ago as 1764 a plant of chrysanthemum was growing in the Botanic Garden at Chelsea, London, it attracted so little attention that it was soon afterwards lost.

In 1789 an enterprising French merchant imported some plants from China, but only one survived. The following year a purple-colored variety was carried to England, and became the progenitor of the present-day flowered variety. With in the next fifty years the chrysanthemum gained in popularity, and was much improved, so that by 1850 there were many varieties in cultivation and chrysanthemum exhibitions were held. France led the way in raising new varieties from seed at that time, and a large number of seedlings were being raised in Guernsey.

In 1846 Mr. Robert Fortune took to England from China the Chusan Daisy, the progenitor of the pompon chrysanthemum, and in 1862 he sent back from the Orient the Japanese type. The latter, with its curling, graceful petals soon won the popular fancy, and its culture was followed by a rapid improvement in form and variety, combinations of this more fantastic and "rakish" type with the incurved pompon type being at the present time among the most favored.

The incurved type is one of the most interesting, and for many years has been considered the most difficult to produce in its highest forms. The early flowering chrysanthemums are mainly the Japanese varieties, although there are some very fine pompon types at this time too.

In connection with the tea at the Empress today, Mrs. Josephine Wood, contralto, will sing, and the Empress orchestra will give an attractive programme.

If completely satisfactory, otherwise your money back, immediately on request. (Adv.)

Drug Store is the Toc H. banner, one of the finest pieces of needlework ever shown in Victoria.

Miss Edith Ravenhill has been working on this banner ever since the beginning of July, never less than two hours a day. She has released it only for three days at the Armistice celebration because she is working hard to have it finished in time for the Toc H. birthday festival service, which will be held in Christ Church Cathedral on Sunday evening, December 16.

The design for the banner, drawn by Mrs. F. S. Holland in accordance with Toc H. specifications, was sent to the Royal School of Art Needlework, South Kensington, who choose all the material.

The central feature of the banner is the Toc H. Lamp of Maintenance, embroidered in such a shade of gold that in certain lights it shows off the lamp in its correct color of bronze green. Hanging from the double cross is a gold chain done in "bullion" after a fashion which Miss Ravenhill followed in work for the chapel of Carisbrooke Castle, Isle of Wight. In the background of the lamp over one thousand yards of silk has been used. Below the lamp is a design from the quartering of the Ravenhill crest.

The banner will be presented to Toc H. by the jobmaster, "Squire" Ravenhill, in memory of his son, Leslie Ravenhill, 7th Battalion, C.E.F., who left with the 88th Battalion on August 28, 1914, and who joined the "elder brethren" in the Second Battle of Ypres.
